ROOSEVELT URGED TO GRANT HEARING ON BIG WORKS LOAN

Georgia Continues Fight for Fund Barred by Ickes Because of Borrowing Limitations.

Still hopeful that President Roosevelt will find a way in which Georgia can share in the three-billion-dollar public works fund, the Georgia public works advisory commission, Governor Eugene Talmadge and Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr., Friday telegraphed the chief executive at his Hyde Park home, seeking a conference in Washington on the subject. Despite the failure thus far of the state's effort to get around constitutional limitations barring its participation in the fund, the advisory commission Friday afternoon approved six Georgia projects calling for expenditures totaling $600,000,000, all of the projects being backed by bonds or highway certificates which the government has agreed to purchase in order to finance public works.

The decision to appeal to President Roosevelt was arrived at in a conference between members of the commission, their lawyers, who Thursday were turned down in their application by Public Works Administrator Ickes, J. S. Cohen, democratic national committeeman, and Clark Howell, of the Constitution.

The commission's attorneys reported officially the failure of their visit to Mr. Ickes, who ruled that the state's share of the huge fund Georgia, despite an amendment to the recovery bill which was aimed to give him the necessary authority. The attorney general, the trip was made by Marion Smith, John A. Sibley and Robert Parker, of Atlanta, and Benjamin E. Pierce, of Augusta.

Chairman T. J. Hamilton and Lyburn G. Clay and Arthur Ryan, members of the commission, said at the conclusion of the conference they would not give up hope of obtaining the state's share of the huge fund until they had definitely heard from the president that there is nothing he can do.

It was agreed that members of the commission and officials, including Henry T. McIntosh, of Albany, should telegraph the president, asking for a White House conference. Senator George also sent a telegram to Governor Talmadge. Senator Russell was reached en route to Pacific coast naval bases, which he is to inspect, and he too urged the president to hear Georgia's appeal.

Chairman Hamilton then called his board into session to discuss the six projects which carry security and they were approved at once. The projects were not made public, but will be immediately sent to Mr. Ickes for final approval.

N., C. & St. L. To Cut Coach, Pullman Fares

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission today granted permission to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway to establish reduced passenger fares in coaches on the basis of approximately 1-1/2 cents per mile, and in sleeping and parlor cars, 3 cents per mile without surcharge.

Shipbuilder's Wife Vanishes From New Orleans Home

NEW ORLEANS, September 29.—(AP)—George M. Cox, 55-year-old shipbuilder, of New Orleans and Chicago, returning from a five weeks' vacation in Cooperstown, Ill., found his lakeside home here deserted, with his 27-year-old wife, their two-year-old son, George Jr., and Mrs. Cox's parents, missing.

Disclosing their disappearance today, Cox offered $25,000 reward for their safe return. He expressed fears that they had been kidnapped but friends said they believed the absent quartet had gone away on a vacation of their own.

HENRY FORD ACTS TO AVERT REVOLT AMONG WORKERS

Magnate Threatens Closing of All Plants in U. S. If Strike Fever Spreads Farther Eastward.

By The United Press.

With Henry Ford resolutely strengthening his defense against possible widespread rebellion on the part of his workers, labor troubles still affected many industrial sections of the nation Friday.

The Ford company dismissed 511 employees of the New Jersey plant who failed to report for work, holding that "they had no reason to leave their jobs." Officials of the plant said the employees had been intimidated by strikers from the Pennsylvania plant.

With little progress having been made toward settlement of coal strikes, Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, called on President Roosevelt at Hyde Park yesterday to discuss the possibility of direct federal action in the bituminous fields of his state.

A test of strength between the national labor board and Ford was conducted Friday, the board having declared its intention of seeking to arbitrate difficulties between the automobile manufacturer and employees of his Chester, Pa., plant.

Plant Closed.

Workers in the Chester factory struck last week and Ford immediately shut the plant down, transferring its production quota to other eastern plants.

In Detroit, it was made plain that Ford wants to keep his gigantic industrial empire functioning smoothly, but that he stands ready to close every Ford plant in the country if strikes close the recovery act by paying those still jobless.

The industrialist does not intend to be coerced by what he calls "strike agitators," it was said. Ford has not signed the NRA code, but probably will meet with NRA mediators if they go to Detroit for a conference. Sources close to Ford said he is trying to abide by the spirit of the code.

Under his present production schedule, the schedule is at low ebb at present. The factory is producing old to the new models, and the manufacturer believes strike agitators are taking advantage of this condition to foment labor troubles.

Chester Plant Idle.

Though he closed down the Chester plant, it was indicated Ford does not intend to close the Edgewater, N. J., plant unless the walkout there becomes general. He claims he is paying his workers a much higher wage scale than they could receive employed elsewhere at present.

The Ford wage scale ranges from 50 cents an hour for a small minority of unskilled laborers to $1.35 an hour for skilled workers. He has ordered his plants back on a five-day, 40-hour work week to insure a living wage.

The eastern Ford strikers demand a $25 weekly minimum for a 35-hour work week.

At Clairton, Pa., 4,000 striking coal miners marched around the Carnegie Steel Company's by-products plant, sending many day shift workers in one of the world's largest coke plants back to their homes. A detachment of state troopers stood by in case of trouble.

Leaders of the anthracite strike around Scranton warned that unless operators recognize their union "we will tie up every mining operation in District No. 1."

Picketing Active.

Peaceful picketing continued at the Weir steel works, Va., steel plants, where 13,000 workers are on strike, demanding union recognition.

Some 6,000 operatives may return to work Monday in Brooklyn, Mass., shoe factories under terms of a new peace settlement proposed at Washington yesterday. Workers in 14 factories have been affected by a four-week union dispute in which the Boston and Shoe Workers' Union, once suspended.

All Atlanta Backing Parade To Show City's NRA Support

Interest Reaches Peak As Grand Marshal Camp Announces Line of March—Leaders in Business, Society Rally Behind Move.

With the dazzling spectacle of officials of the state, county and city, commercial, industrial and social leaders marching on foot in the same procession with thousands of working men and women and a large contingent of the parade, the interest in the parade has reached a peak. The parade is scheduled for Friday at 10 o'clock.

Grand Marshal Lindley W. Camp, grand marshal of the day. Scores of people high in the business and social world rallied to the plan of having them in the procession march on foot if possible and General Camp said he believed the parade would be one which would hold all which have ever been held here.

The line of march will be from Peachtree and Baker streets through Peachtree and Whitehall streets to Mitchell street and over Mitchell to the city hall, where a great reviewing stand will be prepared.

Friday included the Governor's Horse Guards, commanded by Captain Theodore Goulsby, and a contingent of society girls, headed by Miss Amelia LaFayette, who will lead a separate unit to the 1933-34 Debutante Club which already had pledged a unit in the procession.

FUNDS RUN SHORT, ADAMS DROPS 41

Only Way Out, Commissioner Says; Son's Name Added to Pay Roll.

With only $19,000 of its 1933 appropriation of $225,000 remaining, the state department of agriculture has been forced to drop 41 of its 115 employees, Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams said Friday. The department's fourth quarterly budget was submitted to Governor Eugene Talmadge Friday for approval.

Although the 41 employees are dropped from the pay roll, the name of John Adams, son of the commissioner, was added. The younger Adams is listed as a supervisor-inspector in the veterinary division at a salary of $150 a month and expenses of $50 a month. He formerly was an inspector for the Georgia public service commission, but was dropped when the new commission was appointed some weeks ago by Governor Talmadge after the old commission was suspended.

Inquiry revealed that the department still has on hand in the treasury approximately $45,000. From this however must be paid accounts for lights, telephones, office supplies and incidentals, totaling approximately $26,000.

There are no changes in the salaries of bureau heads of the departments and no revisions in the salaries of the employees who are being retained.

JOSEPH V. M'KEE TROWS HIS HAT INTO GOTHAM RING

Young Former Alderman and Foe of Tammany Makes Mayoralty Race Three-Cornered One.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(UP)—After a week of political jockeying, Joseph V. McKee, a young man who dazzled the citizens as acting mayor last year by advocating municipal economy, today became a candidate for mayor.

He announced his candidacy with a flourish of anti-Tammany trumpeting and tossed in a phrase or two of choice anathema for Fiorello La Guardia, the liberal republican, who is running under the fusion banner.

His decision to run produced three candidates in the field and brought consternation and confusion to the amalgamation of republicans and anti-Tammany democrats who had hoped to present a united front against Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany Hall's heavy-jowled nominee.

The political lineup for the mayoralty election on November 7 is as follows: John P. O'Brien, regular (Tammany) candidate, has served one year following the collapse of the James J. Walker regime. A former surrogate, addicted to pleasant speeches and cheerful optimism. Backed by John F. Curry, boss of the hall, and Curry's ally, John H. McCooey, of Brooklyn.

Joseph V. McKee, former president of the board of aldermen and acting mayor in the interregnum between Walker and O'Brien; his popularity attested by the fact that nearly 200,000 voters in his name on the 1932 ballot for mayor, although he was not running. Protrégé of Edward J. Flynn, Bronx democratic leader, who is close to Postmaster-General James A. Farley and the national administration.

Fiorello La Guardia, fiery ex-convict, technically a republican, but friendly to many of President Roosevelt's measures. Backed by republicans, anti-Tammany democrats, and the powerful group whose leadership brought about the resignation of the humorist Jimmy Walker and his replacement by the humorless John O'Brien.

Near Virtue.

By a dramatic coincidence, McKee's announcement was made on the steps of city hall. Near-by, but with his back turned, was the heroic statue of civic virtue, a large-muscled lad who for a dozen years has been tromping on two bison female figures labeled civic vices, the busses.

The announcement was made there because, after chasing McKee's secretary, Charles Keegan, from the Biltmore hotel to his office at the Title Guaranty and Trust Company, the reporters finally caught him just outside room nine—the press headquarters—just opposite Mayor O'Brien's suite.

The announcement, in three typewritten pages, resounded with anti-Tammany phrases.

"An arrogant leadership of stupidity and corruption, unmatched since the days of Tweed," McKee called the Tammany regime.

As a result of their complete control of our municipal government, New York today is on the threshold of bankruptcy. . . . And its obligations brought to the point of default.

Their leadership has been marked by incompetency, stupidity and utter callousness for public opinion and a total disregard of decent standards in political life."

La Guardia Feels Lash.

McKee paid his compliment to La Guardia in these phrases:

"There is no real fusion standard—there is as objectionable to the solid element of our republican citizenry as he is to the vast army of demagogues."

Presiding Judge Buenger, reading an earlier confession, suddenly demanded: "Do you admit setting fire yourself to the reichstag?"

"Yes," the Dutchman replied, almost inaudibly.

Later Van Der Lubbe said, "I had no intention of so doing when I wrote that day. The idea came to me as I walked past the reichstag at 2 o'clock. I spent the afternoon in a suburb, returning to the city at 8 o'clock."

Two large chairs were mounted back of the judges' bench to aid in following the confession, as it was read by Buenger. An attendant with a pointer marked the movements of Van Der Lubbe as the reading proceeded.

Garner Will Receive College-Made Suit

LUBBOCK, Texas, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Several officials of Texas Technological College, together with representatives of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday will present a Tech-made suit to Vice President John Nance Garner.

Wool and cotton in the suit were raised on the campus and the material woven on college looms by two football players, Lamont Martin and Leonard Curfman.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN NEW OUTBREAK IN CUBAN CAPITAL

HAVANA, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Soldiers and communists turned Havana's broadest avenues into battle grounds late today, resulting in 4 dead and 25 wounded. Among the latter was Joe Gibson, 46, an American newspaper photographer.

Six of the wounded, including Captain Hernandez Ruda, of the army, were taken to the hospital. Five of the photographers were injured.

Scattered shooting still resounded through empty streets tonight and students said unknown persons were firing haphazard from speeding automobiles.

No statement concerning today's battling in Havana was forthcoming from the Grau San Martin government, which was concentrating on replenishing the vaults of the national treasury.

President Grau San Martin signed a decree cancelling an agreement with the Chase National bank, under which the Cuban government was to deposit profits derived from the minting of $6,000,000 in silver coin in that institution. This was to guarantee payment on the $20,000,000 public works 5 per cent bond issue.

The agreement was signed under the regime of former President Machado. Soldiers, carrying the demonstrators, opened fire today upon communists marching to Fraternity park, killed at least four persons and wounded at least 11.

The demonstration was in honor of Julio Antonio Mella, communist activist leader, who was killed in Mexico in 1929. Friends of the activist leader were slain at the orders of former President Gerardo Machado.

The demonstration was to have been climaxed at a brick building in the park, where Mella's ashes were to have been buried. The soldiers, however, stopped men working on the monument.

1 of 10 Convicts Taken, Captive Sheriff Freed

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP)—James Clark, one of the 10 escaped convicts from Michigan City prison, was arrested by Hammond police tonight at a downtown street intersection. He was wearing a prison shirt and the overcoat of Sheriff Charles Neel, of Corydon, when captured in a taxicab. It was the first capture since the escape Tuesday.

GARY, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Sheriff Charles Neel, of Corydon, Ind., kidnapped as 10 desperadoes made a successful break from the Indiana state prison at Michigan City Tuesday, was freed at 5 a. m. today, halfway between Valparaiso and Gary.

Too nervous to tell anything of his experience, Neel was said to have spent hours wandering about in woods not far from Gary and finally made his way into the city.

Admitted climbing up the west facade of the parliament building, making his way to a broad ledge and then smashing a window to gain admittance.

The fire, the document continued, was set with matches and tinder, the Dutchman dashing in an irregular course through the building and into a number of rooms. He made his way to the cellar, then into the plenary hall and finally into the Bismarck room, where he was captured.

The tinder becoming exhausted he set them to the flames. At length he ripped towels and draperies into strips and fed the fire with them.

All this activity, the judge said in conclusion, required 15 to 20 minutes. Previously witnesses had testified acts of terrorism were not countenanced by the communist party. The four other defendants are Ernst Torgler, former communist floor leader in the reichstag, and three Bulgarian refugees, Georgi Dimitroff, former Bulgarian communist leader; Blagoi Popoff and Wassil Taneff.

COMPANY OFFICIAL BARES VAST SUMS AWARDED BY U. S.

Treasurer of Corporation Reveals Shipping Board Spent as Much in Repairing Vessels as Company Paid for Them.

BEST BUILDING BID REJECTED BY BOARD

String of Favors at Hands of Federal Organization Admitted by Executive in Ocean Mail Probe.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—List of subsidies, totaling $45,230,151, awarded the Export Steamship Corporation during the Coolidge and Hoover administrations, was placed in the record of the senate committee investigating ocean mail contracts today by Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, chairman.

Concluding the investigation into the first of 50 steamship lines that have ocean mail contracts, Senator Black, chairman of the committee, also put figures in the record to show the export line bought 23 shipping board vessels for $1,357,307 that had cost the government $42,114,117.

E. V. Nevin, of New York, treasurer of the Export Corporation, under examination, said the line owed the government $1,357,307 that it was indebted to the Central Hanover bank in New York and the Philadelphia National bank to the amount of $1,100,000.

Guaranteed Payment.

He said the New York Shipbuilding Company which was awarded the contract for the construction of four $2,000,000 ships, had guaranteed payment to the banks of $400,000 of the notes.

Questioned by Black, the witness testified the company was in a worse financial condition than in 1920, when, he said, former Secretary Lamont approved an extension of a loan to the line over the objections of legal and financial advisors of the shipping board, that Henry Herberman, president, had withdrawn funds from the treasury "illegally."

The line awarded a mail contract by the postoffice department in 1928 which called for the payment by the department of $1,044,000 a year. With the construction of four faster ships for the Atlantic-Mediterranean service, Nevin testified former Postmaster-General Walter Brown amended the contract in 1930 to increase the annual payment to $2,155,000.

Some of Subsidies.

Naming some of the subsidies, Black said under the 10-year contract awarded in the previous administration, the export line would receive $15,587,000 in ocean mail subsidies; that the ships were sold to the company for $3,644,894 less than the world market.

Starting of Reichstag Fire Confessed by Dutch Youth

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A reluctant admission that he had set fire to the reichstag building last February, ripping apart even his coat and shirt to serve as tinder, was drawn today from Marius Van Der Lubbe as he stood, stoop-shouldered and with cast-down eyes, before the supreme court.

Presiding Judge Buenger, reading an earlier confession, suddenly demanded: "Do you admit setting fire yourself to the reichstag?"

"Yes," the Dutchman replied, almost inaudibly.

Later Van Der Lubbe said, "I had no intention of so doing when I wrote that day. The idea came to me as I walked past the reichstag at 2 o'clock. I spent the afternoon in a suburb, returning to the city at 8 o'clock."

RETAIL CODE NEAR FINAL APPROVAL

No Major Change Made in Provision Designed To Halt Price-Cutting.

By JAMES P. SELVAGE.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The retail code, with its proposals for price regulation to stabilize trade throughout the nation, tonight was placed in the hands of Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA chief, for signature.

Officials expected him to give his approval early tomorrow and dispatch to President Roosevelt for promulgation the charter that affects more workers than any other yet to pass through the NRA machinery.

Arthur D. Whiteside, the deputy administrator who has handled the long negotiations, said there had been no important change in the provision designed to stop price-cutting by requiring retailers to sell at not less than wholesale cost plus 10 per cent.

The deputy added that the drug code, which has worked through the mill side by side with the master retail charter, might not be ready to go to Hyde Park, N. Y., at the same time, but that it would follow very quickly.

Signature Expected.
Both Johnson and Mr. Roosevelt are fully conversant with the provisions of the retail code and informed sources expected the president to sign it so that it could become effective by October 16—the second Monday after signing.

Johnson, who may return to his desk Monday, soon thereafter is expected to announce a general reorganization of the NRA.

This would involve a general consolidation of work that would bring four deputy administrators into key positions, with 15 others working under them.

Whiteside, C. C. Williams, Kenneth M. Simpson and Malcolm Muir were understood to have been chosen by Johnson for the key positions. With this new set-up, officials said, the administrator expected to have a more mobile organization and one that would push codes through at a much faster pace.

More Deputies Seen.
In informed areas it was said there was no intention of curtailing the number of deputies and more might be added in the drive for speed.

Each is to take over a section of the codes, with five or six assistants assigned to his staff.

Whiteside, for instance, will handle retail, wholesale, banking and such service industries as deal directly with the consumer. Simpson, who has handled the coal, oil and steel codes, will have before him division similar capital goods industries.

The retail code was completed for presentation to Johnson at about the same time that the farm administration made public codes for retail and wholesale groceries, both of which carry price regulation provisions. It was disclosed, however, that the farm administration would not countenance the form of price mark-up carried in these codes.

Members of the Automotive Boosters Club, Southeast No. 6, held their annual banquet Friday evening at the East Lake Country Club at 7:30 o'clock. The banquet followed the yearly election of officers, which was held Saturday morning at the Atlanta Athletic Club, who will act as master of ceremonies for the boosters' big party, planned a program of unusual merit for the banquet, one of the boosters being several dances by the charming pupils of Mrs. Le Fontaine. The banquet was followed by an evening of dancing by the boosters and their ladies.

Mark-ups for the $9,000,000,000 food and grocery industry is slated for definite rejection by the farm adjustment administration.

This was disclosed authoritatively tonight a few hours after the administration ordered a public hearing for October 9 on a master code for the industry, including mark-up provisions of 2 to 12 per cent for wholesalers and 1 to 2 per cent for retailers.

In announcing the hearing, some of the principal officials of the administration expressed disapproval of the plan. Scott afterwards it became known that George N. Peek, the farm administrator, had determined that no price-fixing would be authorized for distributors by the farm administration except where codes or marketing agreements dealing with agriculture assured parity prices for farm products.

value; that about $7,000,000 was loaned for construction of the four new ships, with $2,838,000 being granted as the difference in interest rates on the loans, and that shipping board paid $407,457 for insurance for the line's vessels.

In addition, the Alabamian said, the shipping board spent $1,351,000 in repairing ships sold to the Export Corporation, while, he added, the sale price was but $1,351,307.

Nevin said, despite the depression, the company was paying 50 per cent of its construction loan payments as they came due.

Questioned as to whether he knew there had been a lower bid for the construction of the four new vessels than that submitted by the New York Shipbuilding Company, Nevin replied in the affirmative.

Underbid $800,000.
Black said the Spears Engineering Company had underbid the New York concern by $800,000. Nevin told Black the stevedores had been then by T. V. O'Connor, chairman, and not the Export line, had rejected the other bid.

"Do you know what connection the Pennsylvania railroad has with the Export line?" Black asked.

Nevin said Henry Herberman, president of Export, formerly had worked for the Pennsylvania.

"Do you know that the Pennsylvania is financially interested in the business?" Black pursued.

"I do not," Nevin said, adding that Black asked if he knew Elisha Lee, vice president of the Pennsylvania, and whether Lee had helped to negotiate the loan to the Export Corporation for the 25 per cent deposit necessary to negotiate a loan from the shipping board for construction of ships under the Jones-White act.

"I do not," Nevin said, adding that because Export used some of the Pennsylvania's piers and did some of the biggest businesses of any American line, the Pennsylvania was interested in making this line a success," Black insisted.

Nevin answered: "It was good business."

Black sought to trace sums of money drawn out in currency by Herberman on his visits to Washington during 1926, 1927 and 1928, during negotiations with the shipping board. Other than to state the money was sent to Herberman by check, to be paid in currency, Nevin said he could not explain the disposition of the funds.

"Do you know where these thousands of dollars went?" asked Black.

"I do not, sir," replied Nevin.

"Only Herberman can tell us where the money went, then?" Black asked.

"That's right," Nevin replied.

Nevin said in reply to questions that Herberman's salary of $125,000 a year had been reduced to $25,000 and that his expenses were limited to $25,000 annually since directors from the New York Shipbuilding Company and the Central Hanover and Philadelphia bank had been placed in the offices.

The hearings were recessed until Monday when R. J. Baker, secretary-treasurer of the American Steamship Owners' Association, will be asked about propaganda activities of his organization.

A sniper firing down from the anti-imperialist league headquarters wounded one soldier. Troops then rushed into the building and ousted all the occupants.

Heavy firing later broke out near the plot of the newspaper, Diario de la Marina. There also was shooting all along the length of the famed Prado Boulevard, which splits the heart of downtown Havana.

The heaviest firing in the second outbreak lasted more than ten minutes. Whether there were other deaths or wounded is not clear. The cause of the initial outbreak could not be determined immediately. The streets were swept clear of pedestrians as the shooting began.

Firing also was reported from other parts of the capital. Several scattered shots were fired in the general neighborhood of the palace.

The shooting outside the Diario de la Marina building was so heavy it was almost impossible for the newspaper employees to carry on telephone conversations.

During the firing the Hungarian consul arrived at the entrance but had difficulty in getting in because most of the doors were locked. He maintains an office in the building.

much money will have been spent in trapping Kelly and wife, Kathryn, as was extorted for the Oklahoma City oil man's freedom.

One agent said he had been informed that Kelly planned to head for the Mexican border had he obtained the $75,000 of alleged ransom money uncovered by agents near Coleman, Texas.

Langford Ramsey, Kelly's former brother-in-law, quoted by Agent John M. Keith as confessing that he made a trip to Coleman in a futile effort to obtain the money for Kelly, entered the city and was arrested when arrested before United States Commissioner Lester Brenner this afternoon on a charge of harboring a fugitive. He was returned to jail in default of $250,000 bond.

Although agents have said repeatedly that the Kellys will be rushed back to Oklahoma City by airplane, newspapermen were taking no chances. There was some belief the trip, if made at night, will not be made by plane. Officers admittedly are trying to plan a secret removal.

SHARP CUTTING TAX ASSESSMENTS

Sharp Decrease in Valuations Shown in Digests Reaching Capitol.

The digest from various counties of the state which are being received by Comptroller General William B. Harrison show that a number of them are following Governor Eugene Tamm's suggestion that they reduce assessments or levies in order to cut the cost of government.

Fulton county is among those showing a sharp decrease in valuations. The Fulton digest was for $250,306,210 in 1932, while this year it is only $232,489,375.

Other counties reporting and their 1932 and 1933 digests follow:

Chatham, $54,647,142 and $50,830,144; Clarke, $14,080,250 and $12,256,750; Colquitt, $3,674,920 and $3,320,402; Crisp, $3,629,065 and $3,484,521; DeKalb, $31,548,212 and $29,588,631; Dougherty, $10,826,752 and $9,861,170; Floyd, $15,744,794 and $16,576,993; Glynn, $10,410,338 and $9,831,174; Lowndes, $9,906,559 and $8,867,608; Muscogee, $30,153,065 and $28,142,485; Spalding, $7,600,119 and $7,359,705; Thomas, $10,087,887 and $8,822,177; Tift, $3,276,933 and $3,211,905; Troun, $10,307,816 and $9,374,440; Ware, $8,826,457 and $8,533,333; Laurens, $7,554,780 and $7,175,500; Sumter, $7,014,712 and $6,001,901; Baldwin, $5,523,882 and $5,298,795; Barrow, $8,225,491 and $5,322,906; Brooks, $4,566,004 and $4,257,215.

Bibb county's digest originally showed $42,856,070 for 1932 and $39,172,408. It was withdrawn, however, when the supreme court held that a joint city-county board of tax appeals was invalid.

morial, destroyed it and then posted guards to see that no one approached. Three hundred soldiers had been called on to patrol the streets, but when the shooting could not be determined immediately.

Crowds Seek Safety.
As rifle, pistol and machine gun fire, the thousands in the streets, including throngs of curious not connected with the communists, rushed to a general store called A. shot the national confederation in connection with the Mella memorial demonstration had closed practically all doors against them.

Persons living along Reina street rushed to their balconies waving white flags. They apparently sought to induce the soldiers to cease.

Two Men Killed.
Two unidentified men and a 15-year-old boy were the three killed. The wounded included four soldiers and Captain Hernandez Rudes. One soldier was wounded in the head and reported critical at the emergency hospital.

The firing started soon after the communists, carrying banners attacking the United States and the American government, United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, Yankee imperialism and Chancellor Adolf Hitler, of Germany, led the headquarters of the anti-imperialist league at Reina and Gervasio streets.

The original 1,000 marchers were augmented by other hundreds as the procession moved along Reina street. Mr. Welles reached his embassy about a mile from the center of the disturbance during the height of the confusion, a reported number of the disorders immediately upon entering the building. Considerable shooting was reported from the Vedado residential section, where a number of Americans made their homes.

Palace Guard Increased.
An extra guard was placed at the presidential palace, cavalry galloped wildly through the streets and an army tank bearing machine guns rumbled into position at the scene of the disturbance.

A heavy rain started falling while the excitement was at its highest pitch.

A sniper firing down from the anti-imperialist league headquarters wounded one soldier. Troops then rushed into the building and ousted all the occupants.

Heavy firing later broke out near the plot of the newspaper, Diario de la Marina. There also was shooting all along the length of the famed Prado Boulevard, which splits the heart of downtown Havana.

The heaviest firing in the second outbreak lasted more than ten minutes. Whether there were other deaths or wounded is not clear. The cause of the initial outbreak could not be determined immediately. The streets were swept clear of pedestrians as the shooting began.

Firing also was reported from other parts of the capital. Several scattered shots were fired in the general neighborhood of the palace.

The shooting outside the Diario de la Marina building was so heavy it was almost impossible for the newspaper employees to carry on telephone conversations.

During the firing the Hungarian consul arrived at the entrance but had difficulty in getting in because most of the doors were locked. He maintains an office in the building.

much money will have been spent in trapping Kelly and wife, Kathryn, as was extorted for the Oklahoma City oil man's freedom.

One agent said he had been informed that Kelly planned to head for the Mexican border had he obtained the $75,000 of alleged ransom money uncovered by agents near Coleman, Texas.

Langford Ramsey, Kelly's former brother-in-law, quoted by Agent John M. Keith as confessing that he made a trip to Coleman in a futile effort to obtain the money for Kelly, entered the city and was arrested when arrested before United States Commissioner Lester Brenner this afternoon on a charge of harboring a fugitive. He was returned to jail in default of $250,000 bond.

Although agents have said repeatedly that the Kellys will be rushed back to Oklahoma City by airplane, newspapermen were taking no chances. There was some belief the trip, if made at night, will not be made by plane. Officers admittedly are trying to plan a secret removal.

Newspaper Advertising Drive Is Indorsed by B. & L. Group

An advertising and publicity campaign by which the building and loan idea may be carried to the public through the newspapers was adopted Friday afternoon at the meeting in the Piedmont hotel of the Georgia Building and Loan League.

The meeting was presided over by Julius McCurdy, of Decatur, president of the league. The meeting also was featured by the presence of Frank Chase, director of the federal savings and loan associations of the Federal Home Loan Bank.

The advertising plan, which will be spent with newspapers by individual building and loan associations, will be raised by assessments on each association. Virtually every representative of an association agreed to the plan, or promised to take it up with his directors and recommend it.

Building and Loan Leagues.
"Building and loan safeguards American liberties," William P. Jacobs, of Clinton, S. C., vice president of the southeastern group conference of the United States Building and Loan League, told the delegates Friday night at a dinner in the Piedmont hotel. He described the building and loan idea as "the most beautiful part of American business life."

Building and loan aid put backbone into men and women and encourages them to persevere, Jacobs said. Asserting that the law itself is not just to the honest man, he described the struggles of the average homeowner, and said that "no matter how great the hardships, you wouldn't be without a home."

Jacobs had one fault to find with Atlanta, in that this city "has de-tailed the building and loan idea. He said she has forgotten the home."

He said he would like to see not the development of apartment life, but the development of the home. "There is no place in building and loan for the professional promoter," he said. "It is built by local talent." He expressed preference for laying "cornerstones of homes rather than those of greed."

Thomas Barton Baird, state manager for the Southern Bell Telephone Company, told Georgia public service commission Friday that free telephone service had not been supplied to certain members of the state legislature, in so far as he knew.

Baird, under questioning by Assistant Attorney-General John T. Goree, said that free service was provided only to certain officials and said that the company who also required to use them frequently for official business.

Goree asked if it were not the custom to furnish free service to "certain members of the legislature."

The company manager said it was not the custom, in so far as he knew, and that he had been with the organization for more than 30 years.

The commission recessed the hearing over the week-end after spending six days questioning officials about various rental charges for special equipment, with the 50-cent monthly extra charge for French, or dumbbell-shaped, telephones under vigorous fire of Goree.

"Free Service" Line Pursued.
The assistant attorney-general asked Baird if Devereaux F. McClatchey, former secretary of the state senate, could answer whether free telephone service had been extended to certain members of the legislature. Baird said he did not know if McClatchey could answer the question.

Goree said after recess of the hearing that his question was to determine if free service had been provided by the company for use of ranking officials of the assembly. He said McClatchey would be called as a witness before the hearing.

Chairman Jud P. Whitlock asked Baird Friday if the company officials had ever considered abolishing the installation charge for telephones, as an experiment to get more business.

Baird said that the company had no such idea, as the installation costs are regarded as nominal and prevent many persons from having telephones installed when they have no idea of keeping the service for more than a month or two.

This view was shared also by Robert Goodman, commercial engineer for the company, who said that on a recent survey of 4,701 non-users of telephones, only 238 gave the installation cost as a reason for not becoming telephone subscribers. If there were no installation charge the telephone companies would be flooded with undesirable customers," he said.

The installation charge ranges from $1 to $3.

$20,000,000 DAM GIVEN APPROVAL

Go-Ahead Signal Given for Work on Gigantic Oregon Project.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A $20,000,000 allotment for a third giant power development on the Pacific coast topped the list of projects that today received the go-ahead signal from the public works administration.

The money will be used to begin construction of a dam and hydro-electric plant at Bonneville, Oregon, on the Columbia river. Already a power and irrigation dam is being built at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado river in Arizona, and an allotment has been made from the public works fund for a $65,000,000 dam at Grand Coulee, also on the Columbia river, in Washington.

It was estimated the Bonneville allocation would provide work for 17,000 men with between 300 and 500 to be given jobs within 45 days.

The total cost of the Bonneville dam was placed at $31,000,000. In addition to giving employment and making the Columbia navigable to the Snake river, it will be designed to aid flood and erosion control.

The construction will be under the direction of army engineers who already have made exhaustive studies of the Columbia river.

The administration also approved new office buildings and public buildings.

Mr. Chase said that the building and loan league have the most successful record of safety of any financial institutions. He urged the associations to join the federal bank, and said that "the government is interested in seeing that the home financing requirements of each city are cared for, and you can count 100 per cent on the government to assist in any possible trouble."

Congressman Robert Ramspeck classed the home loan bank act as one of the greatest pieces of legislation of the congress since he has been a member. John Randolph, of Richmond, Va., secretary of the southeastern group conference, paid a tribute to the work of Horace Russell, Atlanta, who is general counsel of the Federal Home Loan bank and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Mr. McCurdy presided as toastmaster and introduced the speakers. Among the guests of honor were John B. Wilson, secretary of state, who has supervision of the building and loan leagues; Frank Holden, Georgia manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and Ivan Allen, a director of the Federal Home Loan bank of Winston-Salem, N. C.

George W. West, representative of the Atlanta group, speaking at the afternoon session, gave high praise to the Constitution for its editorial Friday morning in which praise was given the effort of Mr. Chase to give government co-operation to the building and loan associations.

The morning session was given to reports on the NRA code, the federal securities act and the new federal income taxes; the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the federal savings and loan associations with special emphasis on the organization of home financing institutions in Georgia in those counties which have building and loan associations. Mr. Chase, who is in Georgia on this mission, will take part in the discussion.

This morning's session will be one of the most important of the meeting. It will discuss the federal savings and loan associations with special emphasis on the organization of home financing institutions in Georgia in those counties which have building and loan associations. Mr. Chase, who is in Georgia on this mission, will take part in the discussion.

Meanwhile, Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, still was at Walter Reed hospital convalescing from an operation for an infection. He received visits from several of his staff members and dictated to a stenographer. Officials expected him back at his desk Monday.

Ending public hearings on the code for the aluminum industry, T. C. Kemp, the deputy administrator presiding, obtained appointment of a committee to settle differences between the Aluminum Company of America, which is dominated by the Mellon interests, and the fabricating trades.

The code of the aluminum company proposed a 25-cent-an-hour minimum wage, compared with 30 cents now being paid under President Roosevelt's emergency re-employment agreement.

The major differences between the producers and fabricators focused on the sale price of ingot, fabricating costs, and the set-up of the authority for administering the code.

Green told the metal trades department of the federation that 1,500,000 members had been added in the last three months and that the drive for organization must continue to assure success of the recovery act.

Asserting the hour stipulations in codes were too long and wage provisions too low, Green added: "We have to go through them again to bring a reduction of hours so they will square with the purposes of the industrial recovery act. We can't put the unemployed back to work on a 44-hour week."

In a separate statement Green indorsed the proposal before President Roosevelt by the committee for the nation of a government subsidy for placer miners as an unemployment relief measure.

are expected to be represented on those days.

One of the cities expected at the hearings on the two days indicated is Savannah. Exhibits concerning a contract between the Southern Bell and the city of Savannah for telephone service were offered Friday. Shelby Myrick, representing the city of Savannah, was not in the senate chamber when the papers were introduced, but is expected back next week. Elijah Maynard, city attorney of Macon, has been here during the hearing.

Mummified Head of King Said Located in Paris

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A mummified head which is claimed to be that of Henry IV is now in the possession of a Montmartre photographer named Bourdais, the novelist, Paul Reboux, writes in the current issue of Vu, a review.

The photographer bought it at an auction in 1919, for three francs. The general cast of the countenance, a mole and other marks, Reboux writes, have convinced the owner that it is really that of the king, who was assassinated May 14, 1610.

Since the desecration of the royal tombs during the French Revolution the head has not been accounted for.

S. AMERICAN TRADE OPENINGS RAISED

Coastal States Group Sees "Vast Possibilities" in Latin America.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 29.—(AP) Investigation of trade possibilities in Central and South American countries conducted by the Coastal States Co-ordinated reveals "vast possibilities," a report of the Pan-American trade relations committee of that organization states.

All the South American countries, along with those of Central America and along the Caribbean sea could be developed as excellent trade markets, according to the report, which was prepared by the committee of that organization.

But one of the best ways to develop and improve relations with Latin America, says the report, is to learn the Spanish language.

"No greater movement, intelligently carried on with vigor than to have the Spanish language not merely listed, but actually taught in all our schools, and be supplemented by special training by well-equipped teachers of Spanish," it reads.

M. O. Dunning, chairman of the committee of Coastal States Co-ordinated, made public the report which is in printed form. It will be mailed to various representative industries, commission houses, export, steamship lines and other industries, Dunning said.

The report goes into detail on subjects of importance to the population, transportation facilities, sea ports and kindred subjects in each country studied.

WOMAN'S LEG CUT OFF BY HIT-AND-RUN AUTO

ALAMO, Ga., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A hit-and-run car tonight cut off the leg of Mrs. Eason Mercer, 35, who was walking at the side of the pavement on the main highway near Columbus. The car sped on, according to county officers, who are hunting for the driver.

The victim of the accident is the wife of an employed mechanic. Her husband is employed in Atlanta. She is the daughter of Howard Graham, here.

Mrs. Mercer's daughter, Dorothy, walking beside her mother, was uninjured.

Rescuers who brought Mrs. Mercer to doctors in this city said the severed leg was found in a ditch 40 feet from where the car struck the woman.

From Wilkes county, he served during the entire period of the War Between the States, but in later years made his home in this county. He was the last of a family of 13 children. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the residence, followed by interment at Friendship Church cemetery. He is survived by two sons and two daughters, Mrs. E. P. Butler, of Atlanta; Mrs. John Ryle, of Elkins; J. A. Finleyson, of Brunswick, and C. A. Finleyson, of this city.

Proposed Fish, Oyster Business On St. Simons Road Arouses Women

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 29.—(AP) The women of Brunswick and St. Simons, sided by the Glynn county grand jury, are opposed to the operation of a fish and oyster business on the Brunswick-St. Simons highway, and are prepared to fight to a finish.

City and county authorities recently granted permission for the business in an old building along the highway. A storm of protest followed, especially from the women.

The Cassin Garden Club, at St. Simons, already has passed a resolution of condemnation, and similar action is scheduled to come before the county board of commissioners.

The grand jury, in special session yesterday took official notice of the situation with a resolution also.

"We view this proposition as extremely dangerous to the general plan for beautification of this section of the city and as an undesirable institution," it read in part.

"We, therefore, wish to express our emphatic disapproval of the project and of any future attempt to establish similar projects on the St. Simons highway."

The women say that the building to be used for the fish and oyster business, the old Ham ship plant, already is unsightly and that the sale of fish there will detract greatly from the beautification work being carried on in the surroundings.

The grand jury, in special session yesterday took official notice of the situation with a resolution also.

"We view this proposition as extremely dangerous to the general plan for beautification of this section of the city and as an undesirable institution," it read in part.

"We, therefore, wish to express our emphatic disapproval of the project and of any future attempt to establish similar projects on the St. Simons highway."

The women say that the building to be used for the fish and oyster business, the old Ham ship plant, already is unsightly and that the sale of fish there will detract greatly from the beautification work being carried on in the surroundings.

STAKE FOREST SOUGHT FOR RICHMOND COUNTY

Plan Calls for Purchase of 10,000-Acre Tract and C. C. C. Camp.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 29.—(AP) Georgia's senators and congressmen have been asked to aid in the establishment of a 10,000-acre state forest in Richmond county. It was announced here following a conference between District Forester Charles N. Elliott and Thomas J. Hamilton, chairman of the state forestry and game commission.

The code goes into effect at 7 o'clock tonight when the sophomore class enters the freshmen at a banquet in the Butcher-Scott gymnasium. Freshmen will be invited with the "NRA" insignia by members of the sophomore commission.

The insignia is a badge bearing the freshman's name and enables the upper classmen to become acquainted with the new students and the new students to become acquainted with each other. Sophomore commission will continue to develop the relationship of friendliness between the two classes, which is to replace the alleged traditional hatred between these operating.

The "NRA" will lift the depressing wave of gloom which always hangs over freshmen of Agnes Scott during "rat week." The abolishing of all hair-pulling, running the gantlet, shining sophomore boots, auctioning of freshmen sweetheart pictures to the college community and singing of laundry lists backwards to the tune of "Dixie," by vote of the student government, has buried the hatchet so far as physical violence and efforts to humiliate are concerned.

The spirit of class rivalry will be maintained only in the Black Cat stunt, a contest of wits between the sophomores and freshmen classes, which will be presented Saturday night, October 14, in the Butcher-Scott gymnasium. Miss Frances James, Atlanta, is chairman of the sophomore stunt, while Miss Isabel McCain, Decatur, has been elected freshman stunt chairman.

BE HAPPY! SEE THE PERCHERS IN "OUR ERLANGER" ALL SEATS, 25c. MATINEE AT 2:30. 25c and 40c. TONIGHTS AT 8:30. 25c and 40c.

'NRA' at Agnes Scott Now Means 'No Ratting Allowed' on Campus

By ALICE CHAMLER. With the adoption of an "NRA" code, the freshman class of Agnes Scott College receives a new deal. The signing of the "No Ratting Allowed" code by members of both the sophomore and freshmen classes inaugurates the new program of freshman initiation on the Agnes Scott campus.

EX-ATLANTAN HEADS
CIRCULATION GROUP

Ed Hood, of Savannah, Formerly With Constitution, Named President.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 29.—(UP)—The Southern Circulation Managers' Association closed its annual convention here today after selecting New Orleans as next year's meeting place and electing officers.

Officers chosen were E. D. Hood, Savannah, Ga., president; J. L. Barksdale Jr., Miami, Fla., and Fred M. Girin, Jacksonville, Fla., vice presidents; Horace Powell, Nashville, Tenn., secretary-treasurer.

Park Hill, Atlanta; Fred Goldschmidt, Memphis, and Arthur M. Lawson, Miami, were named as new members of the board of directors.

"His circulation is good."

That, says tradition in the offices of the Savannah Morning News and Savannah Evening Press, is what the doctor said when he met Edward du Pont Hood upon the arrival of the latter into this world. This was the vocation and life work of this newspaper circulation man cut out for him from the very start.

"Ed" Hood began a circulation battle from scratch and he has been at it ever since. He eats, sleeps and talks circulation, according to those associated with him in this work, and he has the happy faculty of inspiring those about him with the same idea.

Mr. Hood comes from that foundation of so many newspapermen—the home and office of a father who was the owner of a country weekly newspaper. He was literally born into the newspaper business. His father, William Wylie Hood, was the owner of the Gainesville Eagle.

"Ed" Hood has been with the Savannah Morning News since July 12, 1915. The late Frank G. Hall, president of the Morning News, Inc., and actively in charge of the affairs of the paper, was looking for a circulation man with initiative and energy. Someone called his attention to the activities of a rather bright young fellow who was then with the Atlanta Constitution. Hood was engaged by the Morning News and came to Savannah in midsummer of 1915 to prepare for a busy fall.

That he succeeded at his new post is written strong in the circulation figures on record in the office of the Morning News. In 1915, when "Ed" Hood came to the paper, the News had a paid circulation of 10,000. Since he came, the circulation of the paper has more than doubled.

The three or four men in the mailing room of the paper have increased to about twice that number and the one horse that carried the papers to the trains and city distribution points has been replaced by a fleet of fast automobiles that serve both city and country.

January 1, 1931, the Morning News bought the Savannah Evening Press. Since that date Mr. Hood has had charge of the subscription and circulation departments of both newspapers. He has evidenced the same progressiveness in building the circulation of the afternoon paper that he exhibited in his work in the same capacity on the morning paper.

Mr. Hood started his career as a circulation man in Atlanta, receiving his training under John T. Toler, circulation manager of the Atlanta Constitution. He could not have had a better adviser and instructor. This veteran of the circulation ranks in Georgia took a keen interest in the instructions to be given the apprentice.

Mr. Hood became one of his most valuable assistants. Mr. Toler, who is now the president of the International Circulation Managers' Association, remains one of the closest friends and advisers of Mr. Hood.

In Savannah, Mr. Hood is very active in church and fraternal circles. He is a member of the following organizations: Chairman of the board of Junior deacons of the First Baptist church, Y. M. C. C. charter member of Delta Theta Phi, member of the International Circulation Managers' Association, Savannah Board of Trade, Georgia Credit Managers' Association and I. O. O. F., and chairman of the State Boys' Welfare of Georgia.

Georgian Honored

EDWARD DUPONT HOOD.

DR. TURNER BEGINS
FOURTH YEAR SUNDAY

Dr. Herman L. Turner begins his fourth year as pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church Sunday.

Special honor will be paid him at the morning service through an overflow congregation, according to the church officers. His subject will be "An Old-New Challenge."

Dr. Turner came to Atlanta three years ago from the Independent Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, Ala., where he served more than three years as associate pastor to Dr. Henry M. Edmondson.

During the three years just completed under Dr. Turner's leadership, the Covenant church has made progress in every way. A series of 13 red—"I Am the Way"—a pictorial study of Jesus' life and ministry, will begin with the evening service Sunday. The theme for the Covenant church this fall and winter is "A Renewed Church for a New Day."

During Dr. Turner's pastorate in Atlanta, he has gained wide recognition as a leader in religious and civic affairs, serving as president of the Atlanta Christian Council, commissioner of the Atlanta Council of Boy Scouts, and chairman of the speakers' bureau for both the NRA and the Community Chest. Dr. Turner was the Atlanta Rotary Club.

G. C. ADAMS PROTESTS U. S. LOANS ON COTTON

Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams announced Friday that he was filing a protest with the agriculture adjustment administration against the loans being made by the federal government on cotton. The A. A. A. has announced that it will loan 10 cents a pound on low middling seventh-eighths cotton, a lower price on lower grades but no higher prices on higher grade.

"The effect of the government plan will be that farmers will not want to grow high-grade cotton as they cannot get any more money for it," Adams said. "I understand there has been wide protest against the plan and I am joining in it most heartily."

LYNN W. HUDSON SR.
PASSES AT AGE OF 87

Father of Scott Hudson Was Prominent in Livestock Business Here.

Lynn W. Hudson Sr., 87, widely known businessman and the father of Scott Hudson, president of the Atlanta Athletic Club, died Friday morning at his residence at 227 East Lake drive. He had been ill about nine months.

Founder of the live stock firm of Hudson & Couch about 35 years ago, soon after he moved to Atlanta from Danville, Va. Mr. Hudson had an active part in making Atlanta the live stock center of the southeast. He was actively engaged in business until his last illness forced his retirement. He was born in Lancaster, Ky., in 1848, and was graduated from Transylvania University at Lexington.

Mr. Hudson lived with his son, Scott Hudson. He was a member of the Peachtree Christian church, and was a Mason. Another son, Lynn W. Hudson Jr., also lives in Atlanta, and a third son, Banks Hudson, resides in Danville, Va. He also is survived by a son-in-law, G. L. Knight, of Nicholasville, Ky.

The body of Mr. Hudson was taken to Danville Friday night on a train leaving at 6 o'clock. Funeral services and interment will be held there today, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Citizens' Group Seeks To Aid Negroes' Plight

Disturbed by repeated reports of alleged police brutality in relation to negroes, a quiet meeting of Atlanta citizens was held at Wesley Memorial church Friday afternoon to canvass the situation and to consider what might be done to ameliorate the conditions complained of.

Many such cases, some of them involving homicide, were reported and discussed, and the conclusion was unanimously expressed that something should be done, if possible, to bring about a better attitude on the part of police toward the negro group. To that end a committee, composed of Dr. John M. Walker, Mrs. M. E. Tilly and Miss Josephine Wilkins, was appointed to represent the body, in cooperation with other interested organizations, in bringing the facts to the attention of the proper authorities.

Among those attending the meeting were Mrs. S. A. Dent, Mrs. M. E. Tilly, Dr. C. C. Jarrell, Dr. John M. Walker, Mrs. Jessie D. Ames, Miss Josephine Wilkins, Dr. Arthur Harper, Mrs. Margaret Good, Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood, Captain A. T. Walden, R. B. Eleazer, Mrs. W. O. Petty, Mrs. E. H. Mayes, Miss Annie Mai Brown, Miss Josephine Wilkins, Mrs. J. M. Daniel and Rev. W. S. Norton.

Bondsman Put on Gang
For Holding 'Hostage'

When Harry Godfrey, professional bondsman, was unable to locate his client in a police court case, he thought he would be all right to take along the man's wife, Mrs. Annie Eaton, 63, of 189 Woodward avenue, as hostage, it developed in criminal court of Atlanta Friday.

Judge Clarence Bell, presiding, let Godfrey know in no uncertain terms that it was not all right. Judge Bell sentenced Godfrey to serve eight months on the chain gang and pay a fine of $250 on a charge of assault and battery on Mrs. Eaton. Furthermore, Judge Bell said, "this is the most outrageous case I have heard in a long time."

A warrant on similar charges was sworn out against Godfrey's business associate, A. B. Tumlin.

First C.C.C. Period
Comes to End Today

Major General Edward L. King, fourth army corps area commander, announced Friday that today is the last day on which members of the civilian conservation corps may enroll for another period of work in the forest camps.

The six months' period which the corps members signed up for last spring expires today.

The Georgia relief commission and Major Charles T. Senay, army recruiting officer, Monday will begin enrollment and mobilization of replacements in the corps. The quotas will not be known until camp commanders report on the re-enrollments in their camps today.

Replacements in the camps composed of war veterans are to be made by John M. Slaton Jr., Atlanta representative of the veterans' bureau at Base Hospital No. 45.

APPEAL OF BARNETT
SET FOR OCTOBER 16

The case of Captain J. W. Barnett, ousted chairman of the state highway board, against Chairman J. J. Mangham Friday was set for argument October 16 before the state supreme court.

The case is before the high court on appeal from the Haralson superior court, where a jury returned a verdict finding that Captain Barnett had abandoned his office and that Governor Eugene Talmadge had a right to appoint Mr. Mangham to the allegedly vacated post.

It is expected that the arguments before the supreme court will require a full day and may be two days.

In Georgia's Fields and Streams

By H. A. CARTER

WHAT'S WHAT?

Recently I came across a statement published in 1931 to the effect that a certain species of frog was not to be found in the vicinity of Atlanta. The reason given for this was that this city was "too far inland" to permit the capture of this species. It so happened in the summer of 1929 a field party, of which I was a member, took four specimens of this particular species just north of Atlanta, near Buckhead. Naturally, having the evidence at hand, I sat down and wrote a notice for a scientific journal setting forth this extension of the range of the narrow-mouthed toad.

Examination of all the available records of this species for the state in the course of the preparation of this article disclosed the singular fact that not one other record of the occurrence of this species north of the geological fall line existed. This led, naturally, to a study of the available routes of dispersal of this species. The narrow-mouthed toad is represented in the United States National museum from Muscogee and Chatahochee counties, which are situated in the Appalachicola drainage basin. The difference in elevation above sea level of Atlanta and these two counties is considerably less than 500 feet. Considering that such a slight fall exists in the water-level of the Chatahochee, we can say that the species found no great difficulty in reaching this point.

As to negative evidence, no records exist for the narrow-mouthed toad north of the fall line on the Atlantic drainage slopes. From this fact we might state that the Appalachicola basin was the only migration route available to more northerly points.

In making a statement of this sort we would be guilty of assuming that because we have no records the species is absent; the same assumption that led the author of the 1931 statement into his error. Therefore, we can only say that so far as is known at present, the species does not cross the fall line at other points than the Appalachicola basin.

When Dr. Burt publishes on the summer's work that he did in north Georgia this year I shall not be surprised to learn of his taking this species on the Atlantic drainage slopes in the region of Crystalline Rocks. If he finds it, we are nearer the truth of the matter. If not, we shall still be in doubt.

MIDWAY TAKES FORM
AS FAIR NEARS OPENING

Shows, Rides Erected and Exhibit Buildings Assuming Shape.

Small armies of workmen were busy at the Southeastern Fair Friday afternoon and night erecting the numerous attractions of the midway and putting in place the exhibits in the automobile show, the agricultural show and the mercantile displays in the Liberal Arts building to make sure that everything will be ready for the formal opening Monday morning.

Informally many of the riding devices and other amusements will be up and ready for public inspection Sunday afternoon. No admission charge will be made at the gate Sunday and enormous crowds are expected to assemble to get the first glimpse of this year's big show.

The Royal American Shows are bringing to Atlanta this season something really new in the way of a midway. They have adopted many of the new ideas used at the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago.

Too Many College Degrees in U. S.
Hurt Nation, Belgian Educator Says

American people, "living in the midst of fabulous wealth," are afflicted by too much money and too many college and university degrees, according to Dr. Eduard Willems, of the University of Brussels, Belgium.

Here to address an inter-club meeting of the Rotarians at Marietta Friday night, Dr. Willems, who is a member of the international finance committee of Rotary, talked pleasantly at the Biltmore hotel in flawless English while he smoked many American cigarettes. Kindly, with pungent, his opinions were expressed with candor and understanding.

Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf, the Big Bad Wolf?

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 29.—Mr. Harry J. Mehre was encountered strolling along a darkened street. He was humming:

"Who's afraid of the big bad wolf,
The big bad wolf, the big bad wolf,
Who's afraid of the big bad wolf,
Tra la la la la."

This seemed to be the most patent attempt to whistle through the figurative graveyard. Because, while Mr. Mehre and his cohorts are not afraid of the big bad Wolfpack from North Carolina State, they are considerably worried.

The Big Bad Wolf opens Georgia's schedule here Saturday afternoon. And Friday evening found the head coach of the Bulldogs in a rather nervous condition. There had been a bad omen.

It was like this. When it came time to put Harry J. Mehre Junior to bed he requested a bedtime story.

"Tell me about Little Red Riding Hood," said Harry Jr.

The North Carolina Wolfpack had just worked out in the afternoon and they looked so large and ferocious that Harry J. Mehre was troubled.

"I started telling the story," said Coach Mehre. "I put a lot into it. In fact, when I came to the part about the wolf I got up and locked the door. I had about sold myself on the idea. And when I got to the part about 'What big teeth you have, grandma,' I put so much feeling into it that I scared my son. So I came out for a walk. Those guys did have pretty big teeth at that."

All coaches are nervous before the first game of each season. They know that all they have taught, all they have urged, may have fallen on barren ground. They never know what the crop will be—touchdowns or touchbacks.

"Who's afraid of the big, bad wolf? Tra la la la la!"

A CONSTANT BEAUTY CONTEST.

Dr. S. V. Sanford has managed to produce what amounts to a continuous beauty contest in Athens. The president of the university has so interested the young ladies of Georgia in a college education that some 300 of them have registered in the freshman class.

Before these games, and each day at tea time at Costa's (with Uncle Tony dishing it up), one would think that all the feminine beauty in Georgia had been collected at Athens.

And are the freshmen and the sophomores and the juniors and seniors enthusiastic about them? The Georgia harvest moon is going to be sighted at quite a lot this fall. Old alumni returning break down and sob because they were born 20 years too soon. NOW is the time to get a college education at Georgia.

THE OLD FORTUNE TELLER.

There is no reason why the football reporters should have succumbed to the demand that they become amateur fortune tellers each fall, but they have.

There seems to be no reason to view the Georgia-North Carolina State game in any fashion except as an even sort of an affair. North Carolina State has material that is heavier and more experienced than Georgia. Georgia has more speed. And should have a superior pass attack.

This fortune teller believes Georgia will win by a slight margin. But they will not unless they become co-ordinated. Georgia lacked co-ordination in the last scrimmage before the game today, the one of Thursday.

Georgia has had several key men hurt. They are just returning and have not had time to get into the swing of team play, the smoothness that comes with long association.

Georgia, I believe, will win because of an intangible sort of edge which seems to me to exist.

TECH'S OPENING TEST.

Georgia Tech goes into action today a heavy favorite to win. The margin of victory should be relatively small. Jess Neely's Clemson team is playing without one of her better players. Neely has done a great job of coaching at Clemson. This is his second year and his material is not at all equal to that which Tech possesses.

It is also quite possible that Clemson, which scored three times on Georgia last year, will be able to offer enough opposition to prevent a Tech victory. The assumption that Tech's new eleven will win is based on Clemson's showing against Presbyterian.

Tech depends on three sophomores. At least that many must come through to make the Jackets into a formidable outfit.

Shorty Roberts' start as quarterback today bears out a bit of fortune telling done in this column early in the fall before practice began. Roberts is an intelligent football man. He has a keen sense of judgment. He is a good defense man in the safety position despite his shortage of inches.

Tech's team may easily become one of the better teams in the Southeastern conference. Hence the crowd which is expected to attend the inaugural today.

LITTLE DOPE TO BE UPSET.

In the remaining games scheduled by Southeastern members there is little probability that the grand old dope will be kicked around.

Vanderbilt may lose to Oklahoma although the odds here appear about even. A Vanderbilt defeat will be no upset. The Commodores left Thursday and arrived in Oklahoma City last night.

V. P. I. worries Tennessee. The Vols are always slow starters but will not be too slow to beat V. P. I. The Gobblers are undoubtedly tough. But then if Tennessee isn't tougher it means I am wrong again.

Alabama should win from Oglethorpe without a great deal of trouble. This is no reflection on the Petrels. The Crimson Tide simply has too much man power.

Tulane may lose to the Texas Aggies. This game may go either way without any upset in doubt. The Aggies, always strong, are rated high in the southwest. I like Tulane. Slightly. Florida will beat Stetson. I'll bet a hat on it.

Kentucky will win its first conference game, beating the same but out-manned Sewanee eleven.

L. S. U. should win from Rice—unless they've been deceiving us about those Tigers.

The Mississippi-Mississippi State game is close. Ole Miss will take Birmingham-Southern.

And there you have it. The Old Fortune teller at his worst.

BULLDOGS MEET STATERS TODAY

By Ralph McGill.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 29.—They will unveil the 1933 Georgia football team here Saturday afternoon before the curious thousands.

Immediately after the unveiling there will be the sound of skill on skunk as the Georgians and the North Carolina State team go through the dedicatory exercises, 60 minutes of them, and may the best man win.

The unveiling is most important to the Georgia people because the team is somewhat of a mystery. It is largely the 1932 team come back again with some of the dross burned away by the fires of 1932. And there were plenty of fires.

IRISH SYSTEMS.

The Georgia team is very much of a mystery. On days this fall it has appeared to be a smart, driving football team that would win a lot of games. And on other days it has been slow, hesitant and inadequate.

It is fairly well established that North Carolina State has a good team. They were good last fall and they are veterans this season.

Both teams employ the Notre Dame system. Georgia uses a slightly modified style of play. But it will really be one system of play against one of its own kind, putting the issue squarely up to the men and not to any superior system. Unless, of course, this Georgia variation means a more mobile style of play, as I think it does.

Georgia coaches closed out the practice this afternoon without getting a single tip as to what the team's mental attitude was to be. The squad appeared a bit drowsy by their first workout in the stadium with its velvet sward of green.

OUTCOME UNKNOWN.

Coaches know that if the team is right it is good enough to win. Beyond that they know nothing at all about the outcome. And a line which can hold its own with the opposing forwards.

Georgia has been handicapped by minor injuries all fall, this preventing the development of co-ordination.

Georgia's line will average about the same as the State line. The State backs will be about 10 pounds heavier.

And therein, I believe, lies Georgia's chances for victory—speed. And a line which can hold its own with the opposing forwards.

Mercer Meets Army Eleven At West Point

By Ralph McGill.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Lieutenant Gar Davidson sent his Army eleven through a brisk workout today in preparation for the opening football game of the season tomorrow with Mercer University, of Macon, Ga.

The Mercer squad arrived on the Plains at 3 p. m. and led by Captain Trommerhauser lost no time in getting into their tugs for a lengthy workout in Michie stadium. For more than an hour Coach Lake Russell sent the southerners through signal drills, punting and passing practice, laying special emphasis on the kicking and aerial work to get acclimated to the air currents in the Cadets' stadium.

Both coaches will start their first teams, but Davidson had hopes of getting to use a large part of his squad, although predicting a close battle.

PROTHRO, HERE, STATES TERMS

Directors of the Atlanta baseball club last night had J. T. (Doc) Prothro's terms for managing the Crackers in 1934 and were prepared to give the highly successful pilot of Memphis terms for the last five years their answer within several hours.

Prothro, whose name has been mentioned at the top of candidates for the Crackers job, paid a surprise visit to Atlanta yesterday and immediately went into a huddle with owners of the club.

"I am very pleased with this opportunity of coming to Atlanta and hope that we can get together on salary," Prothro said at his hotel room following the conference. He also stated that he was at liberty to come here provided an agreement could be reached.

"I know nothing definitely about the job until directors asked me to come to Atlanta for a conference," he added. Prothro stated that in his event he comes here, he hopes to build up Atlanta's team to its old standard of popularity.

In coming to Atlanta, Prothro would have to sever connections with a highly successful and harmonious organization at Memphis, where Tom Watkins has given him free rein, not only on managing the club, but on buying and selling players. In his five years at the Memphis helm, "Doc's" teams have won one pennant, two half-season pennants, finished second and third.

He expects to get an answer to his proposition today.

EQUIPOISE RUNS HIS FINAL TODAY

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Ten of the country's leading thoroughbreds will oppose Equipoise tomorrow when the C. V. Whitney's five-year-old starts his final race in the $10,000 Havre de Grace handicap.

The fact of 11, named this morning, includes the Wheatley stable's Dark Secret, conqueror of Equipoise in the Jockey Club gold cup; D. O. Wood's Indian runner, best of the western handicap division; Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Inlander, winner of the Arlington classic and Travers, and W. S. Kilmer's Sun Archer, unexpected victor in the Potomac handicap.

Equipoise, winner of $320,970 and first in seven of his eight races this year, will pack the top weight of 132 pounds over the one and one-eighth miles. He will give seven pounds to Dark Secret and from 13 to 28 to the remainder of the field.

The other entries are A. C. Postwick's Mate, conqueror of "Ekky" as a juvenile and a running three-year-old of 1931; Preston M. Burch's Tambour, Mrs. John B. Hertz's Watch Him, W. R. Coe's Osculator, Mrs. Sloane's Okapi, and J. W. Y. Martin's Dark Hope.

Fonseca To Head White Sox Again

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Owner Louis J. Comiskey today announced that Lew Fonseca would be retained as manager of the Chicago White Sox for 1934.

Although rumors have been flying fast that both Chicago's major league clubs would have new managers next year, each manager now has signed a one-year's contract. Manager Charlie Grimm of the Cubs signed a 1934 contract last Monday.

Marist Cadets Win Over R. E. Lee, 14-0

THOMASTON, Ga., Sept. 29.—Marist College, Atlanta, defeated R. E. Lee High, 14 to 0, here this afternoon in the opening of the Lee schedule. Marist scored first in the second period on a series of forward passes and a line buck.

The visitor's line played an excellent defensive game and opened large holes for the backs to get past the line of scrimmage.

Two tickets, to Georgia Tech, if you please sir, and on the 50-yard line.

The football season, which always comes up like Mr. Kipling's thunder, out of Grant Field across the way, is on at the Flats this afternoon.

Jess Neely's big red team from Clemson, up from Hills, is here as the opening opponent for another Gold and White team. Another riot of color out there on the green turf trying to announce to the sun shining brightly. And more bright new fall patterns on display in the stands for the girls to look at and envy.

Cosch William Alexander, looking none the older despite a few lean years since his last championship and maybe a bit younger with that new hat—provided he wears it—starts his thirteenth season as the Tech coach.

The kickoff is set for 2:30 p. m., Atlanta time. John Heinemann, of Georgetown, S. C., a guard, is the Clemson captain and will match for the kickoff with one of Tech's two captains—the Jackets have co-captains this year, Laws and Tharpe. With two captains matching, maybe they can out-guess John Heinemann.

STARTING LINEUP.

Cosch Alexander always leaves his opening lineup in doubt until the eve of the game as a sort of mild jolt for the newspaper boys who have been trying to announce to him, came forward with the names of the starting team last night and here they are:
Slocum and Spradling, ends; Eubanks and Williams, tackles; Laws and Lackey, guards; Shaw, center; Roberts, quarterback; Perkerson and Davis (or Peterson), halfbacks; Dean, fullback.

This lineup you will note, carries only one sophomore, "Lefty" Eubanks, the left tackle, and is only slightly in variance with the one upon which the gentlemen of the press have been speculating.

Q. L. (Shaw) Roberts, the 135-pound dynamo who has football personality, will start at quarterback, as was surmised, as will Norris Dean, the 190-pound center, at fullback.

This is the long and short of it. Roberts is no bigger than a minute and a whole lot quicker than a minute. Dean is not a strapping six-footer from the Mississippi Delta region, who won his spurs with his punting against Alabama last year.

NEW HALFS.

Jere Perkerson, another newcomer who started at left half, worked his way up from the Grey Devil squad, which is equivalent to working one's way out of the Foreign Legion and takes just about as long. He had driving back with lots of promise.

With the exception of Eubanks, the lone sophomore from Lanier High, at Macon, and Carl Shaw, a senior who makes his debut at center, all the others are well known and familiar faces. Shaw, who is close to 200 pounds from Memphis, was one of the ineligible list most of last season and did not play. He starts in place of John Pool, the veteran who is a tried and true punter.

Another team consisting greatly of sophomores, is sure to see service. In fact, Coach Alex likely will use all of his 28 varsity men sometime during the season.

Coach Jess Neely, with his pleasing Tennessee drawl, came into the city with his team yesterday and announced his lineup. Jess was a bit downcast over the chances of Henry Woodward, his fleetest half carrier, of starting the game. Woodward, who received a lick on the left knee in the Presbyterian game, was administered to by Mike Chambers, of the Tech trainer, with characteristic southern chivalry yesterday. Mike told Coach Neely that Woodward should not play a crack at least, but that he might use him today if he felt like taking the chance. Woodward's knee is not quite as bad as a knee at that where Harry Cain, of Alabama, brought to Atlanta last year and yet Cain was able to play after an afternoon under Mike's care.

Tech is very generous to its opponents in offering them the facilities of her training room and trainer. But Coach Alex and Mike are always glad to do it. Both had rather see young Woodward in there than out, for the sake of the spectacle.

As was expected, Coach Neely juggled his lineup after the Presbyterian affair. He will start Lewis, a junior, at right guard, in place of Inabnet; Gene Williamson, at quarterback, for Woodward; Hinson, another soph, at left half, and McGowan, a fullback. McGowan weighs 187 pounds and is heavier than Cole, the other fullback, who is around 170.

Jess has worked hard on the Tigers since the game with P. C. was tied, due to fumbling, and probably will have an improved team out there today, whether Woodward plays or not.

Popular prices are on for this game, with the best tickets going to adults for $1.35 and 40 cents for children of school age, in the north stands. A crowd eclipsing the 14,000 of last year is expected.

Tech's team is undoubtedly an improved one this year. There are some promising looking sophomores, including "Sun Day" Martin, the speedy back from Chester, S. C.; Pug Boyd, halfback from Tech High, who has been looking good; and Hoot Gibson, sophomore end, and Post catcher de luxe Jack Phillips, greatly improved in all-around ability this year, and Chick Galloway, hero of the 75-yard run that beat Alabama, 6-0 last year, also will be in service, as will Dave and John Wilcox, the brother guards, and others.

Three Intersectional Grid Games Hold Dixie Spotlight

SENATORS BEAT YANKS; GLANTS SCOUT RIVALS

Washington Displays
Power in Convincing
8-to-5 Victory.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Washington's champion Senators gave another convincing display of power today as they defeated the Yankees, 8 to 5, to even the series with the first victory since they clinched the American league pennant last week.

With the Giants again in the stands to get a line on their World Series rivals, the Senators jumped on Charley (Red) Ruffing to score five runs in the fourth inning with the aid of a couple of walks and a costly error by Eddie Farrell. Then after their southpaw ace had weakened enough to give the Yanks four in the fifth, they came back with another scoring burst to put the game away.

MANUSH DELIVERS.
Heinie Manush delivered the final decisive blow for Washington when he drove a home run into Babe Ruth's favorite territory, the right-field bleachers, in the seventh inning after Goose Goslin had doubled.

In the closing innings Manager Joe Cronin sent his reserves into action and at the finish Goslin and Fred Schulte were the only regulars left. Jack Russell relieved Whitehill in the eighth.

A pass to Goslin started the Senators off on their scoring burst in the fourth. Manush brought him home with a double and took third when Cronin grounded out. Schulte fanned but Joe Kuhel came through with a single that scored Manush, Ossie Bluege walked and Luke Sewell cracked a double to drive Kuhel home. Then Farrell let Whitehill's grounder go through his legs and both Bluege and Sewell tallied.

Whitehill gave up eight hits in seven innings and walked six while scoring his twenty-second victory of the season.

Alabama Favored Over Petrels Today

Both Teams Compare Favorably As To Weight
With Light Backfields.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 29.—Alabama's Crimson Tide was rising tonight and supporters are hoping it will break over the banks tomorrow afternoon and engulf Oglethorpe in the season's initial contest in Denny stadium.

Coach Harry Robertson's Petrels, who will miss Jack Harrison, hard-running wingback, ran through a final workout this afternoon. The squad is in great condition with the exception of Harrison's sprained ankle and Bull Shaw's injured hand. Shaw, however, was at running guard for the second team and may play.

The two teams compare favorably as to weights. Both have heavy lines and comparatively light, fast backfields. The fine punting of Belton Clark in this afternoon's workout was virtual assurance that he will be in the game tomorrow, although he will not start.

Lawrence Wade will call the signals for Oglethorpe and to most of the kicking. Sam Leslie will do the passing for the starting team.

In the matter of injuries Coach Robertson omits Bill Lee, junior tackle; Ralph Gandy, junior end, and Erskine Walker, senior halfback, who are injured. Neither Don Hutson, junior end, nor "Dogs" Greenman, guard, will play because of injuries.

Coach Thomas had nothing to offer concerning the Alabama team tomorrow. He said that neither team in action first.

EXPECT TROUBLE.
There is an undercurrent of feeling here that Oglethorpe may cause plenty of trouble for the Tide men and consequently a record opening day crowd is expected.

Student spirit is running strong. There was a huge rally on the campus tonight.

The oppressive heat here is not going to aid the cause of either team. Coach Robertson hopes to hold Alabama to a low score. Beyond that he is non-committal. Injuries should not hold back this Alabama team tomorrow because Thomas has plenty of reserves. And they are the kind of reserves who give a coach a feeling of security.

Big, well-proportioned players, many of them experienced. The kick-off is scheduled at 3 o'clock. The lineup:

ALABAMA	OGLETHORPE
J. Walker (181) L. E. Thirmond (180)	D. D. Dwyer (180)
D. Dwyer (180) L. T. Darcott (190)	H. H. H. (185)

SUNDAY GAMES.

Tubby Walton's Firecrackers will close their season at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park with Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills as opponents.

AUBURN BEATS HOWARD, 19 TO 0; TIGERS RAGGED

Wynne's Team Fails To Show Any Improvement
In Second Game.

By Jack Troy.

LEGION FIELD, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 29.—Auburn's Tigers encountered more stubborn resistance from a smaller school here tonight, and in winning over the Howard Bulldogs, 19 to 0, only managed to run up the first downs to the home club's three.

Auburn scored as the result of a first-period fumble, on a spectacular 51-yard broken-field run in the second and on a fourth-period pass.

The Auburn attack was jerky. There were several penalties for delaying the game and excessive kick-outs. In short, Auburn, according to veteran observers who saw the team play against Birmingham-Southern last night, has not shown much improvement, and Howard has a very potent defensive team.

A crowd of 9,000 turned out to greet Wynne's Auburn eleven, undefeated in the last 13 starts. A 20-20 tie with South Carolina last year is the only blot on the record. It was an unusually good early-season crowd for Birmingham.

TALLEY STARS.
Action came early. Williams, Howard halfback, fumbled on the second play of the game. Howard's Fenton, Auburn end, recovered on Howard's 25-yard line.

Howard drew an offside penalty. Marion Talley, Auburn right guard, was charged with kneeling and Auburn moved up to the 1-foot line from where Talley scored outside right tackle. Arigilla's kick failed.

Marion Talley, the Decatur, Ga. boy, raced off right tackle, cut back across the field, stiff-armed Ewing, Howard's end, and resumed a 51-yard run to the second touchdown.

There was no more scoring until the final period. Following a Howard punt and runs by Kimbrell and Talley, Kimbrell passed to Ripper Williams, Auburn quarterback, for the second touchdown.

Howard tossed a scare into the Plainsmen's ranks late in the fourth period. Kennedy passed to Estes for a gain of 35 yards, placing the ball on Auburn's 13, following a 15-yard Auburn penalty. Only the great tackle of O'Rourke kept Estes from scoring.

Estes passed for 15 yards at the line, but two successive passes were incomplete and the ball went over to Auburn.

ALMOST SCORES.

Kimbrell, the Thomasville phantom, missed a great scoring chance in the second period when he raced into the clear, ran 30 yards and as Arigall cut down the line, punt back and was brought down.

Talley and Kimbrell supplied the greater part of Auburn's offensive tonight, while Arigall and Estes played splendidly at the ends.

Dan Snell stood out at end for Howard. Estes, Allen, Ewing and Everett were the best of the Howard line.

AUBURN (19): Fenton, Snell, Kimbrell, Talley, Williams, Estes, Arigilla, Ewing, Everett, Fenton, Snell, Kimbrell, Talley, Williams, Estes, Arigilla, Ewing, Everett.

Yet this team which starts is good enough to win if it goes.

TWO AMBITIONS.

They say of the North Carolina State team that it has two ambitions, to beat Georgia tomorrow and to win from North Carolina later.

Its coaches feel that it will go from the whistle.

Georgia, meanwhile, is faced with the problem of the Wolfpack at the door. The only real solution is to invite the Wolf in and later on present the girl friends with some fur coats. It gets cold in Athens.

Allen Knocks Out Ted Long in Third

Frankie Allen, Atlanta's sensational welterweight, who is rapidly coming to the front with a new style of fighting, scored his first knockout with its use when he fractured Ted Long's jaw in two places with a smashing right in the third round of the feature bout of the Georgia Power Company Athletic Club's monthly show last night.

Allen led throughout, driving Long about the ring with powerful lefts and rights to the head and body. Frankie completely outclassed his opponent and it was a matter of how much Long could take before finally going down.

Monroe Sparks lost a close decision to Hal Glynn in a bloody four-round opener.

MAIDOX PLAYS JUNGER STAR IN FINAL TODAY

Atlanta Stars Meet in Finals of All Flights in State.

Miss Margaret Maddox, defending champion, will meet Miss Dorothy Kirby in an all-Atlanta final for the women's state golf championship over the No. 1 team at East Lake today, beginning at 9:30 a. m.

Miss Kirby, 13-year-old school girl, is probably the youngest golfer ever to enter a state women's final. She has been close to the 10 stroke and Bobby Jones' home course and eliminated Mrs. Charles Black Jr., 6 and 5, Thursday in the semi-finals.

Miss Maddox, who has reigned as state women's golf queen for the last two years, eliminated Mrs. Ashby Taylor, 7-8, in the semi-finals. Miss Maddox has been in the lower 40s throughout the tourney and in her final matches closed her opponents out by large margins.

CLOSE MATCH.
The battle between the two Atlantans should be one of the closest of the final series. They represent two of the finer schools of golf and a large gallery is expected to follow the championship struggle.

Miss Kirby entered her first state tourney a little more than a year ago and lasted through the third round. Weighing less than 100 pounds, Dorothy played the match and was smacked it straight for the pin.

She defeated Mrs. Guy Butler, 7-6; Mrs. R. C. Hale, 8-5; Mrs. John Stewart, 6-5, and Mrs. Black, 6-5, to enter the finals. Her medal score was 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622,

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

"Lady for a Day" Opens Third Week at Rialto

Today the Rialto theater begins the third week of the record-breaking run of "Lady for a Day," that deliciously entertaining Columbia production that has caused more comment than anything shown in the city in years in that it has held crowds of patient patrons every night standing in the theater lobby waiting for seats.

No picture in Atlanta has run for three weeks continuously since the early days of the speaking stage, when "The Jazz Singer," played at the old Metropolitan for seven weeks, as the first of the real sound productions.

It is difficult to say exactly what makes "Lady for a Day" such a delight. It is, primarily, the story, which was written by Damon Runyon. It is a story of average humanity on Broadway, of the racketeers, the gamblers, the beggars and peddlers, night club habitués and meddlers. Not the people as the screen or stage usually presents them, but as they really are and as Runyon knows and understands them.

Secondly, the director, Frank Capra, has done a splendid piece of work. He tells the story straight-forwardly, in logical sequence and with a tempo that never falters.

Thirdly, it is doubtful if a cast was ever more happily chosen. With-out any really big names, each player fits perfectly the part assigned. May Robson, Guy Kibbee, Warren William, Jean Parker, Ned Sparks, Walter Connolly, Glenda Farrell, Nat Pendleton, Barry Norton and the rest are inspired, each of them, to the finest performances of their career by the splendid story in which they work.

The picture is showing at regular admission prices. Manager W. T. Murray has changed his short subject program entirely for the third week, primarily for the benefit of the hundreds who will, undoubtedly, seize the chance to see "Lady for a Day" the second, third or fourth time.

Robinson and FrancisStars at Paramount

"I Loved a Woman," the first National production starring Edward G. Robinson—with Kay Francis—theater today—again presents the widely acclaimed hero of "Little Caesar" with a role of romantic appeal—a drama which vividly portrays a thrilling period of American life of the last four decades.

"I Loved a Woman" is the life drama of one John Hayden (son of a millionaire meat packer), whose sensitive and artistic nature infinitely prefers the fragrant antiquities of Greece to the malodorous stockyards from which the family fortune grew.

Unhappily married to the daughter of one of his fellow packers, Hayden meets an ambitious young singer with whom he falls in love. When, in turn, he discovers that the opera singer has made him only one of many men in her life, Hayden cuts himself off from her and throws himself with fiery enthusiasm into a career of ruthless business aggrandizement.

Kay Francis has the role of the opera singer. Genevieve Tobin plays the part of Robinson's wife.

Bob Hess at the Wuritzer presents an unusually novel program this week, entitled "Ballyhoo." Eugene Paletta and Walter Catlett will be seen in a short feature, "Meet the Champ." Other short features include Stoopnagle and Bud, the famous radio pair, in "Stoopnagle," and Fox Movie-tone News.

Capacity CrowdSeen for Deitrich

A capacity crowd is expected to attend the benefit movie Sunday afternoon at the Paramount theater, when Marlene Dietrich will be seen in the spectacular film, "Blonde Venus." There will be only one show, beginning promptly at 3 o'clock, and with the advance sales of tickets throughout the city, it is being pushed by officers of the 122d infantry, indications that the S. R. O. sign will be hung out.

The show is for the benefit of the band of the local national guard regiment, and proceeds will be used to defray expenses of the band's recent trip to the Century Progress Exposition, where its members had a conspicuous part in a full day's program at the fair. The aid of the public is cordially asked by officers and men of the outfit.

The management has donated the Paramount and also given the film, thus enabling the regiment to use all of the proceeds of the Sunday show to apply on the expenses of the band trip.

Prices of 25 cents and 40 cents will prevail.

Bridge Plans Approved.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—War department approval was given today to plans of the city of Norfolk, Va., for rebuilding a bridge across the eastern branch of Elizabeth river, between Norfolk and Campostello heights.

A Valuable AdditionTo Your Library

In compliance with popular demand, another batch of "OUR PRESIDENTS AT A GLANCE" has been printed. This book, printed on fine paper, 9x12 inches, contains a picture and concise biography of each of the United States presidents, including Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It is valuable as a text book or as a reference work, but even more valuable as a thrilling, entertaining reading matter. It should be in every home.

Mail 50 cents, or bring 45 cents for your copy to the circulation department of The Constitution.

Two PerformancesOf "Our Wives" Today

The two last performances of "Our Wives," that delightful comedy of character—especially feminine character—which is being given this week at the Erlanger theater by the Petruchio Players, will be offered today. There will be a bargain price matinee at 2:15 and the regular night performance at 8:15. Seats may be reserved at the box office anytime after 10 this morning for the night show. There are no reserved seats for matinees.

The play, written by Ludwig Fulda, famous German playwright, is built around the theme that a group of men friends cannot continue that friendship unchanged after they marry. Their wives are sure to disagree, each husband naturally takes the side of his own wife in the ensuing argument and the result is a row that breaks up old friendships unless something drastic is done.

There is also one of the bachelors in the play who is determined never to marry. He refuses to associate with women in any way—until the right girl comes along. And then there is a terrific battle of the sexes between them until it all ends, naturally, in caresses and vows of eternal affection.

It is a clever play and, as presented by the Petruchios, provides a delightful evening in the theater. Next week the company will present "Out of the Night," a laughable mystery thriller and a thrilling comedy all in one.

Georgia Has Sure HitIn "Golden Harvest"

"Golden Harvest," a dramatic story of the present-day American farmer's fight to retain his home, his battle against the speculative debacle in the wheat, is the latest Paramount picture, which comes to the Georgia theater today for a three-day engagement.

The cast includes Richard Arlen, Chester Morris, Genevieve Tobin, Roscoe Ates and Julie Haydon. This is one of the new season's pictures and has just been released for showing.

Two beautiful love stories run through this surging picture of the farmer's battle for life. Walt Martin (Richard Arlen) and Chris Martin (Chester Morris) are two brothers continually in turbulent conflict. When Chris leaves the farm for the city, Walt marries the girl Chris threw over, settles down to the quiet life of the average farmer.

But Chris' activities in the wheat pit put an end to all that. He becomes known as the "Big Bear," stages a spectacular raid on grain, drives prices down, ruining hundreds of farmers in the northwest. To save them, his brother, Walt, organizes the embattled planters and wages a farm strike.

In addition to the feature the Georgia has another thrilling episode of the Tarzan serial, and other attractions include a Mickey McGuire comedy, Pathe News and an NRA featurette.

Film Reveals ColbertAs Fine 'Torch Singer'

"Torch Singer" presents the talented Claudette Colbert as a singer of blue tunes and, strangely enough, reveals her with a remarkably appealing voice for this type of music. This fact coupled with a somewhat different, though highly improbable, story makes this week's Fox feature highly acceptable material.

The opening of the action finds Sally Trent entering the maternity ward of a hospital as a charity patient. She bears a daughter whose father she refuses to name. She is unable to make a go of it for both of them and is forced to give the child up. Later she gains notoriety as a torch singer. By accident she "punches" a bedtime story hour, "auntie," and is so good that she retains this job. One of the high spots is a delightful bit where she is giving the kiddies the low-down on dragons and Judson's Oatena while she holds a highball in one hand and makes appropriate gestures to her convivial friends with the other.

The man in the case returns, contrite, but finds his erstwhile sweetheart a hardened trouper, a la Mae West, and gets a decidedly cold shoulder. In a dramatic and somewhat illogical wind-up she staggers back from a despondent jag, locates her little girl, via the ether, and is reunited with her man. The thing is handled throughout with rather good taste and what little opportunity is afforded by the other parts is well handled by Richard Cortez, Lyda Roberti, David Manners and, of course, that swell artist, Baby Leroy.

Big Bethel choir, which is appearing twice daily at the Fox this week—at 3:15 and 9:15—will sing all the songs of spirituals and secular songs. This act is well staged and, of course, the singing is splendid. Jimmy Beers rounds out an unusually generous musical appointment with his customary adept work at the organ.

The program of shorts includes a Screen Souvenir and cartoon as well as the usual news and a NRA short. Friday night's show was further enlivened by a visitation from Georgia Tech frosh parading—in shirttail—in preparation for today's game.

—LEWIS HAWKINS.

Blue Ribbon Dogs Open Dog WeekWith Free Show at Hastings' Today

More than 50 of the finest dogs in Atlanta will usher in National Dog Week today at a showing of prize winners owned by members of the Atlanta Kennel Club at the Mitchell street store of H. G. Hastings & Company. The show will open at 9 o'clock this morning and last until 4 o'clock this afternoon and at least 25 breeds will be represented in the entrants.

In addition to the display of dogs and more than 100 ribbons and trophies they have won, a special dog act will be given by "Dane," famous trick animal trained by Benno Stein. Dane will do his act at 11 o'clock this morning and at 1 and 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The beginning of National Dog Week Sunday will find greater interest in the welfare of dogs than has ever been displayed here. School children by the thousands are preparing to enter various contests sponsored by The Constitution, the Fox theater and business firms of the city. A feature will be the selection of the outstanding dog hero in this section this year. Maier & Berkele have donated a handsome silver trophy for the winner.

Other contests will be for the best picture made of a dog by an amateur photographer, a poem contest for children under 16 years of age, a limerick contest and a news story contest. All except the poetry competition are open to persons of any age. More than 15 useful and handsome prizes have been offered by Maier & Berkele, Schneider & Son, the Atlanta Veterinary Society, Waldbour & Hood, Trammell Scott Company, Miller's Book Store, Davidson-Paxon Company and H. G. Hastings & Company.

The Constitution's Dog Lovers Club for boys and girls under 16 years is growing daily. Teachers reported Friday that children were more enthusiastic about the club than anything in recent months and thousands are expected to join. Members will be entertained at a showing of a full length dog film at the Fox theater next Saturday.

Those desiring to enroll as members should clip the coupon at the end of this story and mail to the Dog Editor, Atlanta Constitution. All applications must be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Membership cards will be mailed to all who enroll.

Salary Reductions Upheld in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A $300,000 slash across the face of the state's pay roll was upheld tonight by a special supreme court of five attorneys in a 4-to-1 decision declaring valid the salary reduction act of the 1933 legislature.

The decision reversed and remanded the decision of the Mobile circuit court that held the measure unconstitutional on the grounds the title of the act was faulty.

The special court was appointed by Governor R. M. Miller since the salaries of the regular justices were reduced from $7,500 to $5,000 by the act.

'Gun Battle' Broadcast Denounced As Hindrance to Convict Pursuit

CHESTERTON, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Captain Matt Leach, commandant of the Indiana state police, telegraphed a formal protest to the federal radio commission today against the Columbia Broadcasting System for a bullet-punctured radio program purporting to describe a gun battle between police and escaping convicts. The commission promptly agreed to investigate.

Leach told Washington officials that the broadcast, made Wednesday night from station WIND in Gary over the Columbia chain, "seriously interfered" with the pursuit of 10 charge, "had convoluted at increasing the number of shots fired in spite of general instructions and specific cautions," and that he had been discharged.

Captain Leach said it was "a contemptible lie" that he had approved or assisted the broadcast.

"These people approached me with a request that I fire a few shots for them into the microphone they had set up on the farm where some of the convicts had been seen 30 hours before. Their messenger, a state policeman, added that they were going to go through with it anyway."

"I sent him back to forbid it, but when he returned the stunt already was on. Earlier I had asked them: 'Are you insane?' And they replied that they 'might as well have a little fun.' They have had it now and

Showers Scheduled For This Afternoon

Fair this morning, with showers probable this afternoon, was forecast by the weather bureau Friday. Today's range of temperature was expected to be 66 to 85, or slightly cooler than Friday's, which was 65 to 87.

There was a slight rainfall Thursday, the bureau measuring .05 of an inch. There was none Friday.

From Indianapolis came word that Governor McNutt planned Sunday to confer with operators of the station prior to possible action by the state.

Atlanta—Make Ready for...

October 2nd to 7th

The most important event in radio history is upon us. October 2nd inaugurates a tremendous, far-reaching campaign that definitely links Radio with the All-American effort to restore good business.

Never in the history of modern radio have such programs been arranged... they will exceed in dramatic interest and world-wide importance any events yet broadcast. So make ready, Mr. Atlanta Radio Owner, to tune in on prosperity—to dissipate the glooms of yesterday with new confidence and optimism—with music and entertainment.

All the opportunities of modern radio are at your beck and call. If you are yet without radio, you can have one installed NOW—at most attractive prices. If your old set is obsolete, replace it with a good set—or let your service man repair it so that you may have the full enjoyment of this gala broadcasting event.

Remember the dates. Be prepared. Tune in on prosperity next Monday.

Miss Blair To Entertain Sunday For Daughters of Confederacy

Among events of the week-end will be the open house at which Miss Blair, state historian, will entertain Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at Rhodes Memorial hall, honoring the Georgia division of the United Daughters of Confederacy. This is the first of the series of affairs to be given by Miss Blair during the fall and winter months honoring the various organizations in the state and city.

Atlanta Unit, Legion Auxiliary Head Names Committee Chairmen

In preparing for the work of the coming season Mrs. Paul J. McGovern, president Atlanta Unit No. 1, American Legion Auxiliary, has sought the aid of all members. "Our work is most important at this time," she said, "because we must see that the children of veterans and disabled veterans themselves do not suffer unnecessarily while the matter of compensation is being adjusted by the government."

To this end the following chairmen have been appointed: Rehabilitation, Mrs. Arthur L. McCoy; child welfare, Mrs. H. E. Sanford Jr.; finance, Mrs. Kenneth Murrell; Americanism, Mrs. Gordon C. Singleton; emblems and trophies, Mrs. C. A. Wright; unit activities, Mrs. Warren D. White; P. I. D. A. C. Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodes; poppy, Mrs. Arthur Hazard; Red Cross co-operation, Mrs. L. W. Stevens; hospital programs, Mrs. Robert McHenry; national affairs, Mrs. Allen L. Henson; music, Mrs. E. G. Wilkinson; telephone, Mrs. Margaret Owen; auxiliary bulletin, Mrs. L. J. Kopp.

At the recent convention it was brought out that the Atlanta Unit No. 1, American Legion Auxiliary, contributed upward of $3,000 toward relief work among the veterans and their families. Needy families were given food, clothing, fuel, transportation to families; rents were paid and employment found for many.

At Hospital No. 45 the Atlanta unit supplied bed lamps, writing paper, Assisting in entertaining will be the honorary president of the division, Mrs. W. S. Coleman; Miss Anna Caroline Penning, of Columbus; Mrs. John A. Perdue, Mrs. W. J. Verren, of Moultrie; Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby, and Mrs. O. A. Harper. Punch will be served by Misses Helen Bashinski, Betty Boyle, Perry Stewart, Carolyn Russell, Margaret Talmadge, Mary Kate Hudson and Isabella Herberg. Miss Elizabeth Shewmake will register the guests and Misses Iverson Dews, Joanna Wood, Caroline Selman and Elliott Evans will act as guides. Of special interest to the guests will be the U. D. C. room, a depository for division papers, relics and various items of interest belonging to the state. Important among features of the room are the oil paintings of Georgia's seven governors, James M. Smith, Alfred H. Colquitt, James S. Boynton, Henry D. McDaniel, John B. Gordon, Allen D. Candler and Nathaniel E. Harris, who served as Confederate soldiers, and Governor Joseph E. Brown and Vice President Alexander H. Stephens.

The high point of interest for many visitors will be the memorial window depicting the rise and fall of the Confederacy, which was roughly designed by the late A. G. Rhodes, whose memory the hall perpetuates, and executed by Tiffany at the time of the building of the house.

Those eligible to membership in this organization should communicate with the president or the secretary, Mrs. Milo R. Hazel, Dearborn 3072-M. Only those are eligible who are either mothers, sisters, wives, daughters or granddaughters of members of the American Legion or of Disabled Veterans of the World War. Many members are preparing to go to the national convention at Chicago, October 3-4-5. Reservations on the commander's special and hotel accommodations may be made direct through William A. Sirmom, Walnut 2834.

Honors Faculty.

Miss Thyra Askew, principal of the North Avenue Presbyterian school, entertained at tea yesterday afternoon at Throver Hall for the faculty of the school. Autumn colors were used throughout the reception room, which were filled with dahlias. Mrs. Helen Priest and Miss Rosa Wing presided at the tea table, and Miss Mary Ellis, Ethel Pharr and Josephine Walker served.

Miss Elizabeth Catron Will Be Honored In Avondale Estates

Miss Elizabeth Catron of Avondale Estates, whose marriage to Harry Le Roy O'Brien, takes place on Tuesday, October 10, is being extensively entertained. Among those complimenting her will be Mrs. May Cagle, on Friday evening, October 6, at bridge. Misses Dorothy Hinman and Peggy Lannius will entertain on Monday evening at Crystal Lake in honor of Miss Catron and Mr. O'Brien. Mrs. L. T. Catron, sister of the bride, will entertain at a luncheon on Saturday afternoon, October 7, at their home on Avondale road. Miss Sarah Lee Hogan entertained on Saturday afternoon, September 30, at a business party at the Erlanger, followed by a tea at the Tavern Tea Room, at which 14 friends of the honoree were guests. On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. B. G. Fugitt entertained at her home on Virginia avenue complimenting Miss Catron at a bridge-tee.

Mrs. William Goulder entertained Saturday evening, September 30, at a bridge-supper at the Community Club, on Lakeshore drive, Avondale Estates.

Mrs. Vernon Conway was hostess at a bridge-luncheon on Wednesday at her home on Fairfield plaza, Avondale Estates. Her guests included a few close friends.

Mrs. Ernest Pope entertained at a spend-the-day party Wednesday at her home on Avondale road. The guests included Mesdames W. E. Baker, Pope Baker and Julia Cox Chappell.

Mesdames John Stoney, Roop Dorsett and Leland Patton have returned from a house party where they were guests of Mrs. James Wise at DeSota Falls, Ala.

Mrs. D. J. Mac Killop was official hostess on last Monday night at the bridge party held in the Community Clubhouse. Twenty-five guests attended. High scores were made by Mesdames Charles Henry and McCoy VanDeventer.

Mrs. Minnie Nelson has returned from a five-week trip to Chicago, Ill., where she visited several friends and attended the Century of Progress Exposition.

Mrs. W. P. Melton is enjoying a motor trip to Chicago, Ill.

Exotic and Kaye Tompkins have returned home from a two-week visit to their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gellius, of Spartanburg, S. C.

Mrs. C. E. Feltz, of Atlanta, was the dinner guest of Mrs. H. M. Brown Wednesday at her home on Lakeshore drive.

Mrs. Vernon Conway was hostess on Friday afternoon at a benefit bridge party sponsored by the Avondale P. T. A. for the welfare committee. This committee is doing a very constructive work among the school children in Avondale.

Miss Laura Borg Is Hostess At Dancing Party at Home

MISS LAURA BORG.

Among the interesting events of the week assembling members of the sub-club contingent of society was the dancing party at which Miss Laura Borg was hostess last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. When Worlds Collide

By EDWIN BALMER & PHILIP WYLIE

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

Tony, who was still able to think, despite the awful acceleration of the ship, realized presently that the din was diminishing. From his rather scanty knowledge of physics, he tried to deduce what was happening. Either the Ark had reached air so thin that it did not carry sound waves, or else the Ark was traveling so fast that its sound could not catch up with it. The speed of that diminution seemed to increase. The chamber became quieter and quieter. Tony reflected, in spite of the fearful torment he was undergoing, that eventually the only sound which would afflict it would come from the breeches of the tubes in the control rooms, and the rooms themselves would insulate that. Presently, he realized that the ringing in his ears was louder than the noise made by the passage of the ship. He had relaxed the grip on his hand, but at that moment he felt a pressure.

"Hello," in an ordinary voice, and found he had been so deafened that it was inaudible. He tried to lift his hand, but the acceleration required more effort than he was able yet to exert. Then he heard Eve's voice and realized that she was talking very loudly: "Are you all right, Tony? Speak to me."

He shouted back: "I'm all right. How are the children?" He could see them lying stupefied, with eyes wide open.

"It's horrible, isn't it?" Eve cried. "Yes, but the worst is over. We'll be accelerating for some time, though. Energy returned to him. He struggled with the bonds that held his head, and presently spoke again to Eve. She was deathly pale. He looked at the other passengers. Many of them were still unconscious, most of them only partly aware of what was happening. He tried to lift his head from the floor, but the upward pressure still overpowered him. Then the lights in the cabin went out and the screen was illuminated. Across one side was a glimpse of the trail which they were leaving, a bright hurtling yellow streak, but it was not that which held his attention. In the center of the screen was part of a curved disk. Tony realized that he was staring up at half of the northern hemisphere of Earth.

Tony thought he could make out the outline of Alaska on the west coast of the United States, and he saw pinpoints of lights which identified with the renewal of volcanic activity. The screen flashed. Another view appeared. Constellations of stars, such stars as he had never seen, blazing furiously in the velvet blackness of the outer sky. He realized that he was looking at the view to be had from the side of the ship. The light went out again, and a field of four periscopes recorded its field. Again stars, but in their center and hanging away from them, as if in miraculous suspension, was a small round bright body which Tony recognized as Mars.

Once again Eve pressed his hand and Tony returned the pressure. In the control room, Henderson still sat in the sling with his hand on the rheostat. His eyes traveled to a meter which showed their distance from the earth. Then they moved on to a chronometer. He had already determined the time necessary for acceleration—12 minutes—and he could not shorten it.

Tony felt that he had been lying on the floor for an eternity. His strength had come back, but they had been instructed to remain on the floor until the speed of their ascent was stabilized. Minutes dragged. It was becoming possible to converse in the chamber, but few people cared to say anything. Many of them were still violently ill.

At three minutes of five, Henderson slowly moved back the handle of the rheostat and almost abruptly conditions in both periscopes. The volume of sound radiating from the engine room decreased. Henderson unbuckled his bonds and stepped from them. Duquesne, who had unlashed himself, reached unsteadily to take the hand of Henderson.

"Magnificent! Stunning! Beautiful! Perfect! How fast do we now travel?" He was compelled to shout to make himself heard.

Henderson pointed at the meter; its indicator hovered between the figures 3,000 and 3,500.

"Miles?" the Frenchman asked. Henderson nodded.

"Per hour?" Henderson nodded again.

The Frenchman made his mouth into the shape required for a whistle, although no note could be heard.

Henderson operated the switch controlling the choice of periscopes. In the midst of the glass screen the earth now appeared as a round globe, its center being a point of light, clearly apparent. More than half of it lay in shadow, but the illuminated half was like a great relief map. The whole of the United States, part of Europe and the north polar regions were revealed to their gaze. In wonder they regarded the world that had been their home. They could see clearly the colossal island which had been wrought upon it. The great inland sea that occupied the Mississippi valley, sparkled in the morning sun. The Atlantic Ocean, which had sprung into being along the western cordillera were for the most part hidden under a pall of smoke and clouds.

Duquesne pointed solemnly to that part of Europe that was visible. Henderson, looking at the screen for the first time, was shocked to see the disappearance of the Lowland Plain.

The Frenchman moved closer to him and shouted in his ear. "We abandoned the ship outside of Paris when the engines failed. We were on high enough ground. We started a new one in the Alps. I told those pigs—Gentlemen, it will melt. It is but wax. I know it. They replied: 'If it melts, we shall perish.' I responded: 'If you perish, it shall be without me.' Suddenly the Frenchman popped out his head. 'It's all right,' he said. 'The world has turned so that these fools are to leave now.' He moved his lips while he made a rapid calculation. 'We shall observe, is it not so?' In an hour my idiot friends will burn themselves to death. I shall laugh. I shall roar. I shall shout. It will be one grand joke. Yes, you will give me a focus upon France in this remarkable instrument of yours an hour from now, will you not?"

Henderson nodded. He signaled a command to the crew, who had been standing unbuckled from their slings, at attention. They now seated themselves.

When Henderson reached the first deck of passengers' quarters, he found them standing together, comparing notes on the sensations of space-flying. Many of them were rubbing stiff arms and legs. Two or three, including Elliot James, were still lying on the padded deck in obvious discomfort. They had turned on the lights, apparently more interested in their own condition than in the astounding vista of the earth below. Tony had just opened the doors of the larder and was on the point of distributing the sandwiches.

"I assure you," Henderson told Tony and Eve, and their fellow passengers, "that except for its monotony, this trip will offer you no further great discomfort until we reach Bronson Beta, when we shall be under the necessity of repeating approximately the same maneuver. In something less than an hour we are going to turn the periscope on France in an effort to observe the departure of the French equivalent of our ships. We are at the moment trying to locate our second ark, which took its course at a distance from us to avoid any chance of collision, and being between us and the sun, is now temporarily lost in the glare of the sun."

"At about mid-point of our voyage we will concentrate our attention on the collision between the earth and Bronson Alpha. I think at this point I may express my satisfaction in the behavior of the ark. As you all are aware, we have escaped from the earth. We are still well within the field of its gravitational control, in the sense that if our propellent forces ceased, we undoubtedly would fall back upon the earth; but the pull of gravity is constantly weakening. It diminishes, as most of you know, not directly in relation to the distance, but in relation to the square of the distance. It is the great lessening of the pull of gravity which has ended our extreme distress. I am going now to convey the same information to the passengers on the deck above."

Henderson disappeared through the opening in the ceiling which contained the spiral staircase.

Tony saw to the distribution of food and water. The ship rushed through the void so steadily that cups of milk, which Eve held to the lips of the children, scarcely spilled over. The passengers found that they could move from floor to floor without great trouble.

Fans distributed the air inside the ship. Outside, there was vacuum against which the airlocks were sealed. The air of the ship, breathed and "restored," was not actually fresh, although chemically it was perfectly breathable. The soft roar of the rocket propulsion tubes rattled the senses. The sun glared in a black sky studded with brilliant stars.

To the right of the sun, the great glowing crescents of Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta loomed larger and larger. Eve sat with Tony as a periscope turned on them and displayed them on the screen. They could plainly see that Bronson Alpha was below and approaching the earth; Bronson Beta, slowly turning, was higher and much nearer the ship.

"Do you see their relation?" she asked.

"Between the Bronson Bodies?" said Tony. "Aren't they nearer together than they have ever been before?"

"Much nearer; and as father—and Professor Bronson—calculated, Bronson Beta, being much the smaller and lighter, was revolving about Bronson Alpha. The orbit was not a circle; it was a very long ellipse. Some times, therefore, the two bodies came much closer to Alpha than at other times. When they went around the sun, the enormous force of the sun's attraction further distorted the orbit, and Bronson Beta probably is nearer Alpha now than it ever was before. Also, notice it is at the point in its orbit which is most favorable for us."

"You mean for our landing on it?" asked Tony.

"For that; and especially is it favorable to us, after we land—if we do," answered Eve, and she gathered the children to her. She sat between them, an arm about each, gazing at the screen.

"You see the sun had not surely 'captured' Bronson Beta and Bronson Alpha. They had arrived from some incalculable distance and they have rounded the sun, but, without further interference than the sun's attraction, they would retreat again and perhaps never reappear."

"But on the course toward the sun, Alpha destroyed the moon as we know, and Eve and I sat on the floor of the larder and, controlled by Alpha. And now something even more profound is going to happen. Alpha will have contact with the world. That will destroy the earth and will send Bronson Alpha off in another path. One almost certain effect of the contact is that it will break Bronson Beta away from the dominating control of Bronson Alpha and leave Beta subject to the sun. This will provide a much more satisfactory orbit for us about our sun."

"Us?" echoed Tony.

"Us—we get it," said Eve; and she bent and kissed the children. At the end of the hour all the lights in the passenger quarters were turned out. The sun, again flashed on the screen. Its diminution in size was already startling; and the remains of Europe, stranded in a new ocean, looked like a child's model of a four-and-water map.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Stocks lacked the stamina to follow through with an early rise today, drooping in the afternoon to close with a small average loss. Wheat and cotton eased slightly, but the bond market, except in United States governments, was firm.

Metal, oil and alcohol shares pushed up sharply through the morning and into the quiet afternoon dealings. Telephone was down 4-14 net. United Steel sagged a couple of points. Santa Fe about as much, and National Biscuit, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas and Southern Pacific 1-2 more. U. S. Smelting held nearly half of a similar advance. Sales totaled 1,943,000 shares.

Rails may have been affected somewhat by word that last week's freight loadings, though slightly above the previous week, represented a diminishing percentage, rails over 1932. There were a few recruits to the list of roads which are making commitments for rail in pursuance of President Roosevelt's program.

Exchange fluctuations were generally narrow, being slightly against our currency most of the day. The government's plans for reopening closed banks since 1932, there being a considerable number of letters tied up in such institutions, purchasing power in many localities is restricted and the release of so many a sum, even if it were to give a good boost to the recovery cause.

Statistics on retail trade expansion, provided by the New York Reserve bank's compilation, showed that the evidence is that branch of business was considerably healthier than a year ago. Dun and Bradstreet thinks September is looking better than 1932. The tendency to build up inventories, so pronounced a couple of months ago, had disappeared, the review pointed out, adding that a steady tone has thus been given to buying movements and a stronger base established for the future.

$2,000,000 Program Announced by C.B. Q.
CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A $2,000,000 track relaying program for the rest of 1933 and 1934 was announced today by President Ralph Quinry of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad.

The road will immediately purchase 3,000 tons of rail fastenings to be used in laying 17,000 tons of rail the company has thus begun the 1934 purchase next year of 24,000 tons of new rail sections and 7,000 tons of fastenings.

At the basic rate of $40 a ton, Budd said, the purchases would amount to approximately $1,500,000 worth of new steel, while the cost of laying would round out the other $500,000 to be expended.

Employment of 150 additional men, bringing the road's track-laying crew to 250, will be necessary to complete this program and carry out the schedule of 150 additional miles, he announced.

LACKAWANNA PURCHASES 12,000 TONS OF RAILS
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Lackawanna railroad today announced that it was buying 12,000 tons of steel rail in addition to the 8,500 tons it purchased earlier in the year.

TRADE ON CURB

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Curb stocks worked a little higher during the forenoon today, but a dribble of late selling reduced advances and sent a few issues lower for the day, particularly in utilities. Trading continued dull.

A number of specialties closed with sizeable advances. General Tire & Rubber, Safety Car, Heating and Parker Rust Proof finished 3 to 4 points higher. Transfers approximated 245,000 shares compared with 214,000 yesterday.

GAIN IN CONSUMPTION CUTS COTTON STOCKS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Increased consumption of American cotton has reduced the carry-over to 1,000,000 bales as compared to a year ago.

The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that the carry-over of American cotton is 11,597,000 as compared to 12,961,000 bales on August 1, 1932.

The bureau commented that the carry-over for this year is "much smaller than was expected a few months ago, and somewhat smaller than was expected prior to publication of world consumption and mill stocks figures in early September."

"The world mill consumption of all bales in the 1932-33 season," the bureau said, "as compared with 22,310,000 bales in 1931-32."

Most of the increase was in the consumption of American cotton. The 14,716,000 bales of the domestic staple consumed in 1932-33 represented an increase of 3,551,000 bales over the previous season and was the largest since 1925-26.

Although domestic mills have been operating at near record levels for the last three months, the bureau said, stocks of cotton goods at mills had shown little tendency to accumulate, and heavy output having been shipped into distribution channels.

The bureau estimated a world supply of around 24,011,000 bales of American cotton during the 1933-34 season as compared with 25,953,000 in 1932-33.

Domestic consumption during 1932-33 amounted to 531,000 running bales and was the second consecutive month for the corresponding month on record.

Trade Review Notes Continued Recovery

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., Weekly Trade Review said today that September is closing better than it opened and is showing a steeper industrial recovery and more vigorous consumer buying.

"The desire to build inventories in advance of rising markets," asserted the review, "virtually has come to an end, giving a stimulus to buying movements and a firmer base to which to plan future operations."

The comparatively large number of bales which are still closed or operating under restrictions is considered a perpetual handicap of no mean proportions in many districts, while plans for expansion are being held in abeyance by the higher cost of materials and the higher cost of labor.

Volume of chain specialty stores was about the same as for the week preceding, but in the chain grocers were lower. While some of the department stores noted the usual seasonal decline, the extent of the decline was less marked than this time a year ago.

DISTILLING FIRM TO PAY DIVIDEND IN FORM OF WHISKY
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The common stock of National Distillers Products Corporation today received a dividend on the New York Stock Exchange today.

A leading distiller, the company early this year declared a whisky dividend payable October 16 to the holders of record October 12 in the form of warehouse receipts. One case of each five shares of the company's stock "when and if" prohibition repeal becomes a fact. The market value of the dividend was computed at $9 a share, the equivalent of $45 a case for the whisky before payment of taxes.

Most of the increase was in the consumption of American cotton. The 14,716,000 bales of the domestic staple consumed in 1932-33 represented an increase of 3,551,000 bales over the previous season and was the largest since 1925-26.

Although domestic mills have been operating at near record levels for the last three months, the bureau said, stocks of cotton goods at mills had shown little tendency to accumulate, and heavy output having been shipped into distribution channels.

The bureau estimated a world supply of around 24,011,000 bales of American cotton during the 1933-34 season as compared with 25,953,000 in 1932-33.

Domestic consumption during 1932-33 amounted to 531,000 running bales and was the second consecutive month for the corresponding month on record.

Trade Review Notes Continued Recovery

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., Weekly Trade Review said today that September is closing better than it opened and is showing a steeper industrial recovery and more vigorous consumer buying.

"The desire to build inventories in advance of rising markets," asserted the review, "virtually has come to an end, giving a stimulus to buying movements and a firmer base to which to plan future operations."

The comparatively large number of bales which are still closed or operating under restrictions is considered a perpetual handicap of no mean proportions in many districts, while plans for expansion are being held in abeyance by the higher cost of materials and the higher cost of labor.

Volume of chain specialty stores was about the same as for the week preceding, but in the chain grocers were lower. While some of the department stores noted the usual seasonal decline, the extent of the decline was less marked than this time a year ago.

DISTILLING FIRM TO PAY DIVIDEND IN FORM OF WHISKY
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The common stock of National Distillers Products Corporation today received a dividend on the New York Stock Exchange today.

A leading distiller, the company early this year declared a whisky dividend payable October 16 to the holders of record October 12 in the form of warehouse receipts. One case of each five shares of the company's stock "when and if" prohibition repeal becomes a fact. The market value of the dividend was computed at $9 a share, the equivalent of $45 a case for the whisky before payment of taxes.

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE No. 24

As the defeated leaders argued, Dorsky looked up suddenly. "There is Romero now," he exclaimed. All eyes turned up the trail toward Opar. They saw Miguel Romero strolling jauntily into camp. "What detained you?" demanded Zveri. "I wanted to see what was beyond the inner wall," replied the Mexican.
